1           Petitioners Placer County Deputy Sheriffs' Association ("DSA") and Noah Frederito
2 (collectively, "Petitioners") respectfully submit the following Opposition to Respondent the County
3 of Placer ("Respondent" or "County") Motion to Strike on the grounds that the County did not
4 adequately meet and confer with Petitioners prior to filing the motion and that the motion identifies 5 no meritorious grounds on which to strike the disputed paragraphs.

6                                   I.       INTRODUCTION

7           On September 28, 2021, the Placer County Board of Supervisors ("Board") unilaterally
8 repealed a 44-year-old wage initiative known as "Measure F." The Board took this action without 9 submitting the repeal to the voters in violation of the California Constitution and Elections Code.
10 Based on this unlawful repeal, the Board then imposed on the DSA wage increases that violated 11 Measure F. In response to the County's unlawful conduct, Petitioners filed a Petition for Writ of 12 Mandate and Complaint for Declaratory Relief on December 21, 2021. On January 21, 2022,
13 Petitioners filed an Amended Petition ("Petition"). The County has filed this motion ("Motion")
14 seeking to strike paragraphs 10-63 of the Amended Petition, claiming that those allegations are 15 irrelevant. As set forth more fully below, the County's claims are without merit.

16           First, the County did not comply with the statute governing motions to strike. The County
17 did not properly meet and confer with Petitioners over this motion, and the County failed to identify,
18 with specificity, which allegations should be stricken. Second, and more importantly, the 54
19 paragraphs the County seeks to strike are relevant to the proceeding. Finally, the Petition complies 20 with all applicable standards of pleading, rendering the County's attempt to strike any portion of 21 the Petition improper.

22                                   II.       LEGAL STANDARD

23           Pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure section 436 the Court, in its discretion and 24 under terms it deems proper, is authorized to strike out any "irrelevant, false, or improper matter
25 inserted in any pleading." The Court may also strike out all or any part of a pleading "not drawn 26 or filed in conformity with the laws of this state, a court rule, or an order of the court." (Ibid.)

27           An immaterial or "irrelevant" allegation is one that is not essential to the statement of a 28 claim or defense, or an allegation that is neither pertinent to nor supported by an otherwise sufficient

1 claim or defense, or a demand for judgment requesting relief not supported by the allegations in the 2 pleading. (Code Civ. Proc. § 431.10(b).) Allegations in pleadings are to be “liberally construed.”
3 (Code Civ. Proc. § 452.) When reviewing pleadings, courts draw all reasonable inferences in favor
4 of the allegations therein. (Beck v. County of San Mateo (1984) 154 Cal.App.3d 374, 379.)
5 Moreover, courts “read allegations of a pleading subject to a motion to strike as a whole, all parts
6 in their context, and assume their truth. (Cryolife, Inc. v. Superior Court (2003) 110 Cal.App.4th
7 1145, 1157 [citing Clauson v. Superior Court (1998) 67 Cal.App.4th 1253, 1255] [emphasis 8 added].)

9 III. ARGUMENT

10 The County seeks to strike the vast majority of the Petition (54 of 93 relevant paragraphs – 11 over half of the Petition) on the grounds that the County has unilaterally deemed the paragraphs 12 irrelevant. (See Motion, p. 6.) The County’s Motion cannot be granted. The County failed to 13 adequately meet and confer with Petitioners and also failed to identify the grounds for objecting to 14 each allegation. Instead, the County discussed the 70 allegations collectively and its grounds for 15 objections in broad strokes. Accordingly, the County failed to comply with the controlling statute.
16 Further, the material the County seeks to strike is directly relevant to the causes of action set forth
17 in the Petition, and thus cannot be properly stricken. The Petition is adequately and properly 18 pleaded, and the disputed paragraphs should not be stricken. Instead, the disputed material should 19 be liberally construed and presumed true. Thus, the County’s Motion to Strike should be denied in 20 its entirety.

21 A. The County’s Motion to Strike Failed to Comport with the Controlling Statute.

22 Prior to filing a motion to strike, the moving party is required to meet and confer with the 23 party who filed the pleading to determine if an agreement can be reached. (Code Civ. Proc. § 24 435.5(a).) If an amended pleading is filed, the parties must meet and confer again regarding the 25 amended pleading. (Ibid.) As part of the meet and confer process, the moving party must identify 26 “all of the specific allegations that it believes are subject to being stricken and identify with legal 27 support the basis of the deficiencies.” (Code Civ. Proc. § 435.5(a)(1) [Emphasis added].) The 28 parties shall meet in good faith. (Code Civ. Proc. § 435.5(a)(2).) Such a good faith attempt involves

1 more than merely trying to convince the other side “of the errors of their ways.” Rather, it requires 2 “a serious effort at negotiation and informal resolution”, which includes talking the matter over,
3 comparing viewpoints, consultation, and deliberation. (Townsend v. Super. Ct. (1998) 61
4 Cal.App.4th 1431, 1435-39.)

5 On January 7, 2022, Respondent’s counsel, Michael Youril, contacted Petitioners’ counsel, 6 David E. Mastagni, via an email regarding his intention to demur to the Petition for Writ of 7 Mandate and to move to strike paragraphs 10-80 of the Petition for Writ of Mandate. (Declaration
8 of David E. Mastagni ISO Opposition to Motion to Strike (“Mastagni Dec.”) ¶ 4.) The only basis 9 for the motion to strike stated in the email was, “[m]ost of the above is irrelevant to the pending
10 matter and primarily involves matters that are still pending before the PERB Board.” (Mastagni 11 Dec. ¶ 4, Exh. 1.) On January 12, 2022 at 9:30 am, counsel for Petitioners, David E. Mastagni and 12 Taylor Davies-Mahaffey, met and conferred telephonically with counsel for Respondent Michael 13 Youril and Lars Reed, regarding the County’s intent to file a demurrer and a motion to strike.
14 During the very brief conversation, Respondent’s counsel restated they intended to move to strike 15 paragraphs 1-80 from the Petition. (Mastagni Dec. ¶ 5.) Initially, Mr. Youril asserted the 16 paragraphs at issue were relevant to Petitioner’s PERB Charge alleging bad faith bargaining and 17 other unfair labor practices. Mr. Mastagni explained that while the actions before PERB involved 18 some overlapping factual circumstances, the legal cause of action and relief were distinct.
19 Petitioners’ counsel further informed Mr. Youril that the relevance of the 70 paragraphs identified
20 varied by subject matter and relevance to this action. Mr. Mastagni offered examples, pointing out
21 that some paragraphs dealt with the parties bargaining over measure F and overall compensation,
22 other dealt with subsequent voter initiatives to retain Measure F, other dealt with the County’s
23 inconsistent interpretations of Measure F and misrepresentations. Mr. Mastagni also explained that 24 the allegations had multiple and varied relevance, including the legal theories and the remedies.
25 Regarding remedies, Petitioners explained that impacts of the County’s actions and their 26 arbitrariness are relevant to fee liability. The County suggested that allegations related to attorney
27 fee liability did not need to be included in the Petition. (Ibid.)

28 ///

1 During this phone call, Petitioners' counsel repeatedly invited the County to discuss each
2 allegation at issue so the parties could properly confer over its relevance and advised that it was 3 not feasible to adequately meet and confer over 70 paragraphs of the Petition collectively.
4 (Mastagni Dec. ¶ 6.) Mr. Mastagni also advised that Petitioners were willing to amend the Petition
5 if the County could articulate individualized grounds for each allegation they desired to strike. Mr.
6 Mastagni advised that insisting on conferring over all 70 paragraphs collectively would waste
7 judicial resources and spike the litigation costs as the individualized consideration would end up
8 eventually being briefed. Respondent's counsel consistently declined to discuss the relevance of 9 the individual paragraphs. As an alternative, Petitioners' counsel also suggested Respondent limit 10 the number of paragraphs it sought to strike to make the meet and confer discussions more fruitful.
11 Respondent's counsel declined those offers as well. (Ibid.)

12 On January 13, 2022, Mr. Mastagni sent a letter to Mr. Youril, memorializing the attempt 13 to meet and confer and once again offered to discuss each paragraph the County intended to move 14 to strike. (Mastagni Dec. ¶ 7, Exhs. 2-3.) Mr. Mastagni further reiterated that were Respondent to 15 reduce the number of paragraphs it sought to strike, the meet and confer discussions would be more 16 efficient. In response, the County again declined to meet and confer in good faith regarding the 17 disputed paragraphs. (Ibid.)

18 In the spirit of cooperation and the hope of avoiding the expenses associated with a motion
19 to strike, Petitioners filed an Amended Petition on January 21, 2022, unilaterally removing some 20 of the disputed material. (Mastagni Dec. ¶ 8.) None of the amendments were agreed upon during 21 the meet and confer call. (Ibid.) In a brief conversation on January 28, 2022, the County's counsel
22 again declined to discuss any allegations with particularity. (Mastagni Dec. ¶ 9.) Instead, Mr.
23 Youril summarily advised that his position regarding the motion to strike was unchanged and there 24 was nothing further to discuss. Instead of meeting and conferring in good faith regarding the 25 objections to each disputed allegation, the County filed its Motion to Strike and Demurrer on 26 February 2, 2022, seeking to strike 54 paragraphs from the Amended Petition. Thus, the County
27 failed to meet and confer with Petitioner in good faith following the filing of the Amended Petition,
28 in contravention of the controlling statute. (See Code Civ. Proc. § 435.5(a)(2).)

1 By failing to meet and confer in good faith, the County's Motion to Strike is improper. On 2 this basis alone, the County's Motion should not be considered or should be denied in its entirety if 3 any allegations are proper.

4 B. The Material the County Seeks to Strike is Relevant.

5 "[A] matter which is essential to cause of action should not be stricken . . . and it is error to 6 do so. (Clements v. T. R. Bechtel Co. (1954) 43 Cal.2d 227, 242 [citing cases] [internal citations 7 omitted].) "Where a motion to strike is so broad as to include relevant matter, the motion should 8 be denied in its entirety.'" (Triodyne, supra, 240 Cal.App.2d at 542; [see also Allerton v. King
9 (1929) 96 Cal.App. 230, 234].) Material essential to laying the foundation of a claim is per se
10 relevant. (See California Farm & Fruit Co. v. Schiappa-Pietra (1907) 151 Cal. 732, 745 [where 11 facts alleged lay the foundation for any part of a claim for relief properly sought, it is error to strike 12 those facts even if they are not absolutely necessary].) The relevance of foundational facts is even 13 more apparent where, as here, a matter is particularly complicated. (Id. at 741).

14 A "relevant" fact is one which has "any tendency to prove or disprove any disputed fact 15 that is of consequence to the determination of the action." (Evid. Code § 210 [emphasis added].)
16 A fact is relevant if it tends to prove any position taken by Petitioners in regard to the dispute at 17 issue, and/or if it tends to disprove any position taken by the County in regard to the dispute at 18 issue. The foundational facts the County seeks to strike are instrumental to Petitioners' case in both 19 regards. Thus, the disputed paragraphs in the Petition are plainly relevant and not subject to strike.

20 1. The Disputed Material is Relevant for Attorney's Fees and Damages.

21 First, each and every allegation establishing the foundational facts of this dispute are 22 relevant to Petitioners' entitlement to attorney's fees and damages. (See Gov. Code § 800 [awarding 23 attorneys' fees and costs for government actions that are arbitrary and capricious].) The Petition
24 sets forth facts regarding the County's continuously changing position on the Measure F formula
25 during pending negotiations to demonstrate that the repeal was not done in good faith. Furthermore,
26 allegations of misrepresentations to the public, arbitrary and capricious behavior, improper 27 motivations, and attempts to overturn the express will of the electorate are relevant to attorney's 28 fees and damages. (See Code Civ. Proc. § 1021.5[attorneys' fees granted for the enforcement of

1 an important right affecting the public interest].) Facts pleaded regarding appropriate damages are 2 relevant and should never be stricken from complaints.<sup>1</sup> (See Johnson v. Central Aviation Corp.
3 (1951) 103 Cal.App.2d 102, 105-106 [improper to strike as irrelevant complaint allegations related
4 to damages].)

5 2. The Disputed Material Relates to the Crux of Petitioner's Argument.

6 The Petition sets forth three causes of action, alleging that the County violated Elections
7 Code section 9125, the California Constitution, and the Placer County Code by unilaterally
8 repealing Measure F (Placer County Code section 3.12.040) and then imposing deputy salaries that 9 violated the ordinance. Petitioners contend that Measure F was properly enacted by initiative in 10 1976. However, even if the 1976 initiative vote was invalid (as the County claims it was), the Placer 11 County Board of Supervisors adopted the Measure F formula over the years, including multiple 12 resolutions affirming section 3.12.040, after the incorporation of the Charter. Thus, regardless of 13 when Measure F/section 3.12.040 became effective, the popular votes in 2002 and 2006, in which 14 the voters of Placer County twice refused to repeal Measure F, sufficiently implicate Election Code
15 9125 and the Constitution's protection of the people's initiative power. (See Elec. Code § 9125
16 ["No ordinance proposed by initiative petition and adopted either by the board of supervisors 17 without submission to the voters or adopted by the voters shall be repealed or amended except by 18 a vote of the people, unless provision is otherwise made in the original ordinance."].)

19 During the 2002 and 2006 elections, the County and the Placer County Board of Supervisors
20 created and distributed election materials, on which the Placer County electorate relied, that a "no"
21 vote retained the Measure F formula and that a "yes" vote repealed the Measure F formula. (See 22 Exhibits "A" and "C" to the Amended Petition.) Any ambiguity as to the import of the "no" vote 23 must be resolved in favor of the will of the electorate to affirm section 3.12.040 through the 24 initiative process. (See California Cannabis Coalition v. City of Upland (2017) 3 Cal.5th 924, 946
25 [holding "Our answer is rooted firmly in the long-standing and consistent line of cases emphasizing 26 courts' obligation to protect and liberally construe the initiative power and to narrowly construe

28 <sup>1</sup> Although County maintains that fee liability is not relevant unless Petitioners prevail, that argument is not a basis to strike any of the material allegations related to damages. Amending remedies into the Petition at a later stage simply wastes the time of both parties as well as scarce judicial resources.

1 provisions that would burden or limit its exercise.”] [internal citations omitted].) Thus, regardless
2 of the efficacy of the 1976 initiative, the failed attempt to repeal Section 3.12.040 in 2002, and the 3 subsequent failed attempt to repeal section 3.12.040 in 2006, independently prohibits Section
4 3.12.040’s repeal without a vote of the people. (See Elec. Code § 9125.) Alternatively, petitioners
5 argue that the California Constitution prevents the County from nullifying the electorate’s lawful
6 vote on these initiatives. (See Respondents’ Opposition to Demurrer at p. 19.) In moving to strike
7 the disputed paragraphs of the Petition, the County seeks to prevent the Court from assessing the 8 legal import of the 2002 and 2006 initiative measures and the broad, inherent Constitutional 9 protections against government action that would nullify the will of the electorate.

10 Plainly, much of material the County seeks to strike from the Petition are allegations that 11 represent the core of Petitioners’ causes of action and go to rebut the County’s claims. Each and 12 every one of the disputed allegations supporting Petitioners’ position regarding the foregoing or 13 calling into question the County’s position regarding the foregoing are manifestly relevant to the 14 instant matter and thus cannot be properly stricken. (Evid. Code § 210.)

15 3. Each One of the Disputed Paragraphs is Relevant.

16 a. Paragraphs 12, 14, 15.

17 The County’s Motion states the foregoing paragraphs “contain allegations about prior 18 (failed) ballot initiatives attempting to repeal Placer County Code section 3.12.040.” (Motion at p.
19 7.) The relevance of these paragraphs is discussed at length above. The allegations contained in 20 these paragraphs are relevant to the County’s claim that Measure F was eliminated by enactment of 21 the Charter. Were that the case, the County would have no need to seek repeal of Measure F in 22 either 2002 or 2006.

23 Moreover, the County’s February 2, 2022 requests for judicial notice demonstrates that the 24 history of Measure F, set forth by the Petition, spanning from 1976 to the present, is inherently
25 relevant to the dispute. The requests for judicial notice are themselves the County’s tacit admission
26 that the facts set forth in the Petition are relevant, particularly as the allegations claim the will of 27 the voters as expressed at the ballot box is material to the instant legal dispute. Relevant matters 28 which are properly the subject of judicial notice are appropriate in complaints, and are treated as

1 well-pleaded facts. (See City of Hawthorne ex rel. Wohlner v. H&C Disposal Co. (2003) 109
2 Cal.App.4th 1668, 1678.) As noted above, these facts are also relevant to the question of attorney's
3 fees and damages. (See Gov. Code § 800 [awarding attorneys' fees and costs for government actions
4 that are arbitrary and capricious; Code Civ. Proc. § 1021.5 [attorneys' fees granted for the
5 enforcement of an important right affecting the public interest].)

6 b. Paragraphs 10, 11, 13, 30, and 38-41.

7 The County's Motion states the foregoing paragraphs "contain allegations regarding prior 8 representations and public statements allegedly made by County representatives regarding the 9 validity and legal status of Measure F." (Motion, p. 7.) The statements of County public officials
10 and County representatives are the official legal pronouncements of the County, specifically relied 11 upon by the voters. (See Evid. Code § 664 [It is presumed that an official duty has been regularly 12 performed]; see also Walker v. Los Angeles Cnty. (1961) 55 Cal.2d 626, 636 [en banc] [the acts of 13 the local legislature carry a rebuttable presumption that official duty has been performed].) Thus, 14 the pronouncements are directly relevant evidence of voter intent when voting for or against 15 Measure F. For example, an article written by the former Placer County CEO shows that at the 16 time of the enactment of the Charter, Measure F was construed as valid and compatible with the 17 Charter, and remained in effect for decades. (See Exhibit "B" to the Amended Petition.)

18 Thus, the allegations contained in these paragraphs are relevant because they show the 19 County's position upon which the electorate relied when voting on initiative measures. They are 20 also relevant to show that between 1980 and 2003 county officials have construed 3.12.040 as 21 compatible with the Charter. They further illustrate positions upon which Petitioners relied during 22 collective bargaining and negotiations. The paragraphs are relevant to credibility determinations, 23 as they demonstrate the County's position over time, and the County's representations to Petitioners 24 and the public. As noted above, these facts are also relevant to the question of attorney's fees and 25 damages. (See Gov. Code § 800 [awarding attorneys' fees and costs for government actions that
26 are arbitrary and capricious; Code Civ. Proc. § 1021.5 [attorneys' fees granted for the enforcement 27 of an important right affecting the public interest].)

28 ///

1                                   c. Paragraph 16.

2           The County's Motion states the foregoing paragraph "alleges the DSA 'accepted the 3 judgment of the voters' with respect to its failed attempt to repeal section 3.12.040 in 2006."
4 (Motion at p. 7.) The relevance of this paragraph is discussed at length, above. This paragraph sets
5 forth DSA's position as it relates to collective bargaining regarding Measure F and section 3.12.040.
6 It is of note, and relevant to the instant dispute, that the County only construed Measure F as in 7 conflict with the Charter when the DSA would not submit to the County's demands that the DSA
8 subvert the will of Placer County voters. The gravamen of the Petition is that the County breached
9 a ministerial duty by failing to abide by the Elections Code and the will of the voters. The relevance
10 of these paragraphs is further demonstrated by the County's own requests for judicial notice of past 11 election results. As noted above, these facts are also relevant to the question of attorney's fees and 12 damages. (See Gov. Code § 800 [awarding attorneys' fees and costs for government actions that
13 are arbitrary and capricious; Code Civ. Proc. § 1021.5 [attorneys' fees granted for the enforcement
14 of an important right affecting the public interest].)

15                                   d. Paragraphs 17-19 and 21.

16           The County's Motion states the foregoing paragraphs "contain allegations regarding the 17 parties' past practice of enacting salary increases consistent with Measure F." (Motion at p. 8.)
18 The relevance of these paragraphs is discussed at length above. These paragraphs demonstrate that 19 for over 40 years, the parties interpreted Measure F in a consistent manner and shows a course of 20 conduct of both parties regarding their understanding of Measure F. These paragraphs are directly 21 relevant to credibility determinations, including the position of the parties in collective bargaining 22 over time. These facts demonstrate the County's position on which Petitioners relied during 23 collective bargaining and negotiations. As noted above, these facts are also relevant to the question 24 of attorney's fees and damages. (See Gov. Code § 800 [awarding attorneys' fees and costs for 25 government actions that are arbitrary and capricious; Code Civ. Proc. § 1021.5 [attorneys' fees 26 granted for the enforcement of an important right affecting the public interest].)

28    ///

1                                   e. Paragraph 20.

2           The County's Motion states the foregoing paragraph "contains allegations regarding a prior 3 amendment to County Code section 3.12.040 that did not affect the salary-setting formula for 4 deputy sheriffs." (Motion at p. 8.) Were section 3.12.040 negated by the Charter, the County would 5 have no need to amend the code section. Further, this paragraph is relevant to show the County's
6 position on the legality of Measure F over time. The paragraph is also relevant in making credibility
7 determinations. These facts are relevant to the question of attorney's fees and damages.

8                                   f. Paragraphs 22 and 23.

9           The County's Motion states the foregoing paragraphs "consist of unsupported speculation
10 regarding the County's motives for repealing Section 3.12.040 and the County's legal position 11 regarding its authority to do so." (Motion at pp. 8-9.) Allegations made upon information and 12 belief are decidedly appropriate at the complaint stage. A "plaintiff may allege on information and 13 belief any matters that are not within his personal knowledge, if he has information leading him to 14 believe that the allegations are true.'" (Doe v. Cty. Of Los Angeles (2007) 42 Cal.4th 531, 570 15 [quoting Pridonoff v. Balokovich (1951) 36 Cal.2d 788, 792].) Indeed, one of the purposes of 16 litigation is to discover evidence that supports pleading allegations. Further, the paragraphs are 17 relevant because they go directly to the subject matter of the dispute; whether the County knew it
18 did not have the legal authority to repeal Measure F unilaterally. The relevance of these paragraphs 19 is demonstrated by the County's own requests for judicial notice of past election results. As noted 20 above, these facts are also relevant to the question of attorney's fees and damages. (See Gov. Code 21 § 800 [awarding attorneys' fees and costs for government actions that are arbitrary and capricious;
22 Code Civ. Proc. § 1021.5 [attorneys' fees granted for the enforcement of an important right 23 affecting the public interest].)

24                                   g. Paragraph 24.

25           The County's Motion states the foregoing paragraph "concerns the County's policy for 26 determining compensation for members of the County Board of Supervisors." (Motion at p. 9.)
27 The paragraph in fact alleges that the formula for compensating the members of the Board of 28 Supervisors is the same as the Measure F formula. This paragraph is relevant to show the County's

1 position on the legality of Measure F over time. The paragraph is also relevant in making credibility
2 determinations. Furthermore, these facts are relevant to the question of attorney's fees and
3 damages. (See Gov. Code § 800 [awarding attorneys' fees and costs for government actions that
4 are arbitrary and capricious; Code Civ. Proc. § 1021.5 [attorneys' fees granted for the enforcement
5 of an important right affecting the public interest].)

6 h. Paragraphs 25-34, 47-48, and 52-53.

7 The County's Motion states the foregoing paragraphs "contain allegations regarding the 8 parties' most recent collective bargaining negotiations beginning in 2018 and leading to a 9 declaration of impasse." (Motion at p. 9.) The allegations contained in these paragraphs are 10 relevant because they demonstrate the County's position upon which Petitioners relied during 11 collective bargaining and negotiations. The County has varied its position on whether Measure F
12 represented a floor or ceiling regarding compensation. The facts demonstrate that Measure F did 13 not prevent the board from negotiating or determining overall compensation. The requirements set 14 forth by Measure F are thus relevant to the amount of discretion the Board of Supervisors retains 15 over setting compensation. (See Kugler v. Yocum (1968) 69 Cal.2d 371, 376 [grants of legislative 16 authority must be accompanied by adequate safeguards to prevent its abuse].) Further, the 17 paragraphs are relevant to credibility determinations, as they demonstrate the County's position 18 over time, and memorialize the County's representations to Petitioners. These facts are also 19 relevant to the question of attorney's fees and damages. (See Gov. Code § 800 [awarding attorneys'
20 fees and costs for government actions that are arbitrary and capricious; Code Civ. Proc. § 1021.5
21 [attorneys' fees granted for the enforcement of an important right affecting the public interest].)

22 i. Paragraphs 35-37 and 58-63.

23 The County's Motion states the foregoing paragraphs "contain allegations regarding a 24 statutory factfinding proceeding the parties participated in following the negotiation impasse."
25 (Motion at p. 10.) The factfinding process was presided over by an experienced mediator and 26 arbitrator at the request of County. (See Exhibit "G" to the Amended Petition.) The factfinding is 27 inherently relevant to the dispute as the factfinding process thoroughly developed the background
28 of the dispute, and examined the legal positions of both parties. The findings of fact are judicially

1   noticeable for their veracity in addition to providing important background information and legal 2   research to the Court. As discussed above, facts that are appropriately judicially noticeable are 3   properly pleaded in complaints. (See City of Hawthorne, supra, 109 Cal.App.4th at 1678.)
4   Moreover, the factfinding is relevant to demonstrate the parties' positions over time, and assist the 5   Court in making credibility determinations. Thus, the facts as pleaded are relevant to the Petition.
6   Furthermore, these facts are relevant to the question of attorney's fees and damages. (See Gov.
7   Code § 800 [awarding attorneys' fees and costs for government actions that are arbitrary and 8   capricious; Code Civ. Proc. § 1021.5 [attorneys' fees granted for the enforcement of an important
9   right affecting the public interest].)

10                   j. Paragraphs 42-45.

11           The County's Motion states the foregoing paragraphs "contain allegations regarding the 12   DSA's filing of an unfair practice charge before the Public Employment Relations Board ("PERB")
13   and the County's response." (Motion at pp. 10-11.) Petitioner's unfair labor practice charge and 14   the County's response (including their own unfair labor practice charge) are both judicially
15   noticeable and relevant. (See City of Hawthorne, 109 Cal.App.4th at 1678.) The allegations
16   contained in these paragraphs are relevant because they demonstrate the County's position upon 17   which Petitioners relied during collective bargaining and negotiations. The paragraphs are also 18   relevant to credibility determinations, as they demonstrate the County's position over time, and 19   memorialize the County's representations to Petitioners. As noted above, these facts are also 20   relevant to the question of attorney's fees and damages. (See Gov. Code § 800 [awarding attorneys'
21   fees and costs for government actions that are arbitrary and capricious; Code Civ. Proc. § 1021.5
22   [attorneys' fees granted for the enforcement of an important right affecting the public interest].)

23                   k. Paragraphs 46 and 49-50.

24           The County's Motion states the foregoing paragraphs "consist of further unsupported
25   speculation regarding the County's motives...for making certain proposals during collective 26   bargaining." (Motion at p. 11.) As noted above, allegations made upon information and belief are 27   decidedly appropriate at the complaint stage. (See Doe, supra, 42 Cal.4th at 570.) The County's 28   motives for its repeatedly changing position on the legality and validity of Measure F are relevant

1 to demonstrate the County's position over time, and to assist the Court in making credibility
2 determinations. The County's motives are also directly relevant to the question of attorney's fees
3 and damages. (See Gov. Code § 800 [awarding attorneys' fees and costs for government actions
4 that are arbitrary and capricious; Code Civ. Proc. § 1021.5 [attorneys' fees granted for the
5 enforcement of an important right affecting the public interest].)

6 l. Paragraph 51.

7 The County's Motion states the foregoing paragraph "contains allegations regarding the 8 County's negotiations with another bargaining unit and subsequent implementation of salary
9 changes for that bargaining unit." (Motion at p. 11.) The impact that the County's meandering
10 position on Measure F has on collective bargaining units within the County is the precise subject
11 matter of this dispute. The facts are further relevant because they demonstrate the County's position
12 over time, and will assist the Court in making credibility determinations. The facts are also directly 13 relevant to the question of attorney's fees and damages. (See Gov. Code § 800 [awarding attorneys'
14 fees and costs for government actions that are arbitrary and capricious; Code Civ. Proc. § 1021.5
15 [attorneys' fees granted for the enforcement of an important right affecting the public interest].)

16 m. Paragraph 54-57.

17 The County's Motion states the foregoing paragraphs "contain allegations regarding 18 County's attempts to meet and confer with the DSA over its proposed repeal of Section 3.12.040."
19 (Motion at pp. 11-12.) The allegations contained in these paragraphs are relevant because they 20 demonstrate the County's position upon which Petitioners relied during collective bargaining and 21 negotiations. The paragraphs are also relevant to credibility determinations, as they demonstrate 22 the County's position over time, and memorialize the County's representations to Petitioners.
23 These facts are relevant to the question of attorney's fees and damages. (See Gov. Code § 800
24 [awarding attorneys' fees and costs for government actions that are arbitrary and capricious; Code 25 Civ. Proc. § 1021.5 [attorneys' fees granted for the enforcement of an important right affecting the 26 public interest].)

1           C. The Disputed Paragraphs Comply with California Standards of Pleading.

2           The Petition is entitled to liberal construction. (Code Civ. Proc. § 452.) When reviewing 3 pleadings, courts draw all reasonable inferences in favor of the allegations therein. (Beck, supra,
4 154 Cal. App. 3d at 379.) Courts “read allegations of a pleading subject to a motion to strike as a 5 whole, all parts in their context, and assume their truth. (Cryolife, supra, 110 Cal. App. 4th at 6 1157.) Before striking a complaint, “every reasonable doubt must be made in favor of the 7 pleading.” (Arnold v. Hibernia Savings & Loan Soc. (1944) 23 Cal.2d 741, 744).

8           It is well settled that issues not raised in the pleadings generally cannot be adjudicated. (Lein 9 v. Parkin (1957) 49 Cal.2d 397, 400-401 [en banc].) The Petition necessarily pleads the 10 foundational facts required to properly present the disputed issues to the Court. The Petition must 11 adequately frame all relevant issues in order for the court to properly decide what evidence is 12 relevant to an ultimate determination. (See Linder v. Cooley (1963) 216 Cal.App.2d 390, 397.)
13 The Petition must set forth facts upon which Petitioners will rely through the prosecution of the 14 entire case, including a potential appeal, because parties may not raise issues on appeal that were 15 not raised by the pleadings. (See Viglione v. Cty. And Cnty. Of San Francisco (1952) 109 16 Cal.App.2d 158, 159-160.) Allegations that “would entitle the plaintiff to relief, at least in some 17 measure” are not properly stricken. (Honan v Title Ins. & Trust Co. (1935) 9 Cal.App. 2d 675, 18 678.) For these reasons, among others, striking a pleading “is a harsh proceeding, and should only 19 be resorted to in extreme cases.” (Burns v. Scoofy (1893) 98 Cal. 271, 276.)

20           The County’s argument that the facts do not relate directly to the causes of actions pleaded 21 is both erroneous and irrelevant. “California requires the pleading of facts pursuant to its system
22 of ‘code pleading’”. (Bach v. Cnty. of Butte (1983) 147 Cal.App.3d 554, 561.) The County’s
23 Motion to Strike seeks to strip Petitioners’ Petition of all relevant facts and turn it into a notice
24 pleading, which is not appropriate in California courts. (See Id.) The relevance of the facts pleaded 25 is appropriately determined by the Court, not the County’s own self-serving averments that the 26 disputed paragraphs are irrelevant. “It is an elementary principle of modern pleading that the nature 27 and character of a pleading is to be determined from its allegations, regardless of what it may be 28 called, and that the subject matter of an action and issues involved are determined from the facts

1 alleged rather than from the title of the pleadings”. (B.L.M. v. Sabo & Deitsch (1997) 55
2 Cal.App.4th 823, 842 [citing cases] [internal punctuation and citations omitted].) “In short, a
3 plaintiff is entitled to relief on any claim supported by the facts pleaded even if that claim is not
4 mentioned in the title of the complaint.” (Id.)

5 Here, all of the disputed paragraphs, as noted above, have multiple bases for relevance. The 6 disputed facts are relevant because the facts as pleaded in the Petition frame the issues for the Court,
7 and must be pleaded or forever forfeited. The Petition should be liberally construed, with all 8 questions as to the relevance of the facts pleaded therein resolved in favor of Petitioners. This is 9 not the type of extreme case that would warrant striking any of the disputed allegations. Thus, the 10 County’s Motion to Strike should be denied in its entirety.

11 IV. CONCLUSION

12 The County’s Motion to Strike improperly seeks to strike over half of the Petition. The 13 County entirely failed to comply with the controlling statute because it failed to adequately meet 14 and confer and neglected to identify, with required specificity, the allegations that should allegedly 15 be stricken from the Petition and the legal reasons for striking those allegations. Further, the 16 allegations the County seeks to strike from the Petition are all demonstrably relevant. Each and 17 every allegation contained in the Petition properly sets forth facts upon which some relief can be 18 granted and adequately frames the relevant legal issues for the Court. The disputed facts, as 19 pleaded, cannot properly be stricken, and striking the disputed facts would be error. Accordingly, 20 the County’s Motion to Strike should be denied in its entirety.

19 I, David E. Mastagni Declare:

20 1. I am an attorney, duly licensed to practice law within the State of California, 21 employed as a Partner at Mastagni Holstedt, A.P.C., the attorneys of record for Petitioners the 22 Placer County Sheriff's Deputy Association and Noah Frederito ("Petitioners") in the abovecaptioned matter.

23 2. I have personal knowledge of the following facts. If called and sworn as a witness,
24 I could and would testify to the following:

25 3. On December 21, 2021, Petitioners filed a Petition for Writ of Mandate in Placer
26 County Superior Court, requesting Declaratory and other relief regarding the County of Placer's
27 ("Respondent") unilateral repeal of Placer County Code section 3.12.040, which codifies Measure 28 F.

1           4.       On January 7, 2022, I was contacted by Respondent's counsel, Michael Youril, via
2 an email regarding his intention to demur to the Petition for Writ of Mandate and to move to strike
3 paragraphs 10-80 of the Petition for Writ of Mandate. The only basis for the motion to strike stated 4 was, "[m]ost of the above is irrelevant to the pending matter and primarily involves matters that 5 are still pending before the PERB Board." A true and correct copy of the January 7, 2022 email is 6 attached hereto as Exhibit 1.

7           5.       On January 12, 2022, at 9:30 a.m., Taylor Davies-Mahaffey and I met and 8 conferred with Mr. Youril and Lars Reed by telephone. During our very brief conversation, 9 Respondent's counsel restated they intended to move to strike paragraphs 1-80 from the Petition.
10 Initially, opposing counsel asserted the paragraphs at issue were relevant to my client's PERB
11 Charge alleging bad faith bargaining and other unfair labor practices. I explained that while the 12 actions before PERB involved some overlapping factual circumstances, the legal cause of action 13 and relief were distinct. I further informed Mr. Youril that the relevance of the 70 paragraphs he 14 identified varied by subject matter and relevance to this action. I offered examples, pointing out
15 that some paragraphs dealt with the parties bargaining over measure F and overall compensation,
16 other dealt with subsequent voter initiatives to retain Measure F, other dealt with the County's 17 inconsistent interpretations of Measure F and misrepresentations. I also explained that the 18 allegations had multiple and varied relevance, including the legal theories and the remedies.
19 Regarding remedies, I explained that impacts of the County's actions and their arbitrariness are 20 relevant to fee liability. He suggested that allegations related to attorney fee liability did not need 21 to be included in the Petition.

22           6.       I repeatedly invited him to discuss each allegation at issue so we could properly
23 confer over its relevance and advised him that it was not feasible to adequately meet and confer
24 over 70 paragraphs of the Petition collectively. I advised that my client was willing to amend the 25 Petition if he could articulate individualized grounds for each allegation he desired to strike. I 26 advised that insisting on conferring over all 70 paragraphs collectively, would waste judicial 27 resources and spike the litigation costs as the individualized consideration would end up being 28 briefed. Respondent's counsel consistently declined to discuss the relevance of the individual

1 paragraphs. As an alternative, I also suggested Respondent limit the number of paragraphs it
2 sought to strike to make the meet and confer discussions more fruitful. Respondent's counsel 3 declined those offers as well.

4 7. On January 13, 2022, I wrote a letter to Mr. Youril memorializing our January 12, 5 2022 telephone call. I reiterated to Mr. Youril that we could go through the Petition paragraph by 6 paragraph to discuss the relevance of each. I further reiterated that were Respondent to reduce the 7 number of paragraphs it sought to strike, the meet and confer discussions would be more efficient.
8 Respondent declined to reduce the amount of material it sought to strike, or to go over the specific 9 allegations it contended were irrelevant. A true and correct copy of the January 13 letter is attached
10 hereto as Exhibit 2. A true and correct copy of the email correspondence between counsel 11 regarding the motion to strike is attached hereto as Exhibit 3.

12 8. In the spirit of cooperation and the hope of avoiding the expenses associated with 13 a motion to strike, Petitioners filed an Amended Petition on January 21, 2022, unilaterally 14 removing some of the disputed material. None of the amendments were agreed upon during the 15 meet and confer call.

16 9. On January 28, 2022, I briefly spoke with Respondent's counsel regarding the 17 Amended Petition. Mr. Youril summarily advised that his position regarding the motion to strike
18 was unchanged and there was nothing further to discuss. I again offered to meaningfully discuss 19 the relevance of each allegation he intended to strike, but he again declined meet and confer over 20 the allegations with any specificity.

21 10. On February 2, 2022, without meaningfully meeting and conferring in good faith 22 over the allegations at issue in the Amended Petition, Respondent filed their Motion to Strike the 23 Amended Petition and Demurrer to the Amended Petition.

Good afternoon Taylor and David,

I am writing to meet and confer regarding the attached writ petition. The County intends to file a motion to strike and a demurrer. Can you please let me know some times Monday, Tuesday, or Wednesday that either of you are available for a call?

The grounds for the demurrer should be relatively well defined at this point, as they have been discussed extensively as part of negotiations and the PERB proceedings. Measure F is legally ineffective. Specifically, the primary grounds for the demurrer are that the California Constitution provides the governing body of a county exclusive authority to set compensation. (Cal. Const., art. XI, § 1(b).) The County Charter provision cited in Paragraph 7 of the writ of mandate supersedes Measure F and provides similar authority to the County BOS to set compensation. The exclusive authority of the governing body of a county to set compensation has been affirmed several times. (See e.g., Sonoma County Organization of Public Employees v. County of Sonoma (1979) 23 Cal.3d 296; County of Sonoma v. Superior Court (2009) 173 Cal.App.4th 322.) There are several other similar cases.

In addition, Measure F is preempted by the MMBA. (See e.g., Voters for Responsible Ret. v. Bd. of Supervisors (1994) 8 Cal.4th 765.)

Accordingly, the County's repeal and replacement of County Code section 3.12.040, and its actions in adjusting compensation for DSA members, were lawful and well within the County's authority.

The County will also move to strike the following provisions:

- Paragraphs 10-80.

Most of the above is irrelevant to the pending matter and primarily involves matters that are still pending before the PERB Board.

As noted above, please let me know your availability Monday, Tuesday, or Wednesday for a call.

Thank you,

Michael

Re: Placer County Deputy Sheriffs' Assoc. v. County of Placer;
*Meet and Confer over the County's Demurrer and Motion to Strike

Dear Mr. Youril:

The purpose of this letter is to summarize our conversation during the parties' meet and confer session on January 12, 2022. On January 7, you informed our office via email that the County intended to file a demurrer and a motion to strike paragraphs 10-80 of the Complaint. We participated in a telephonic meet and confer session on January 12 at 9:30 am.

During the meet and confer, you expressed concerns that paragraphs 10-80 were not relevant to the legal questions raised by the complaint. We stated that the relevance of each of the 70 paragraphs varied based on subject matter. We repeatedly offered to go through each paragraph one by one and discuss the relevance with you. You declined these offers. As stated during our meeting, discussing the allegations in broad strokes does not allow consideration of the differences in subject matter and areas of relevance. We also suggested that you limit the paragraphs you wished to strike so we could more efficiently and thoroughly discuss each one. You again declined to do so.

In conclusion, we also suggested that proceeding just with the demurrer would be a more efficient and less costly method of adjudicating the legal questions.

Michael,

As I previously indicated, we are willing to meet and confer individually over each of the 70 paragraphs you seek to strike. However, your insistence on meeting and conferring over the relevancy of 70 separate paragraphs of the complaint collectively is not feasible or reasonable. The allegations identified cover a variety of factually allegations relevant to the underlying legal claims, including the meaning, intent and historical interpretation of Measure F, the meaning, intent and historical interpretation of the relevant sections of the County Charter, the meaning and distinction between salary and compensation, and the requested remedy. As you know, Petitioners seek a make whole remedy, as well as fees and costs of suit. The County's ever changing public representations, statements against interest, and interpretations of Measure F and the Charter are directly relevant to its potential liability for fees and costs. For example, fees are available under Government Code section 800 based upon the "arbitrary or capricious action or conduct by a public entity or an officer thereof in his or her official capacity." The allegations are also relevant to Petitioners' claims that this action, if successful, will vindicate an important public right and confer a significant benefit on a large class of persons, i.e. the rights and will of the voters, and should be paid by the County in the interests of justice. (See, CCP 1021.5.)

Additionally, I am unavailable on February 24, 2022. Can you please provide alternative hearing dates.

Sincerely,

David

Subject: RE: Placer County DSA v. County of Placer - Meet and Confer over the County's Demurrer and Motion to Strike

Following-up on your attached January 13, 2022 letter, the County's position remains that the only questions for resolution in the writ are (1) whether the County was required to follow Election Code section 9125, and (2) whether the County's imposition of terms was valid. The second question depends entirely on the answer to the first question. Both of our clients have an interest in knowing the outcome of the Elections Code question and it is properly determined by a court. However, neither party needs significant facts to frame that question for resolution. The only facts relevant to your causes of action are Measure F, the County's repeal of the ordinance codifying it, and the County's implementation of new compensation terms.

I disagree that past practice or non-binding interpretations by various individuals are relevant to the outcome of the legal question. I certainly do not believe the facts concerning negotiations that are currently before PERB are relevant to that question. The Complaint includes headings such as, "Contract Negotiations and Impasse," "The County's Improper Conduct During Factfinding Proceedings," etc. Those issues are clearly within the scope of the unfair practice charge your office filed with PERB and have no relevance to the legal question at issue before the court. Our concern is that if the County does not move to strike those provisions, and if the demurrer were overruled, then the scope of the writ proceedings would be greatly expanded and include matters that are squarely within the scope of the unfair practice. This would basically result in litigation in dual forums, which would be very inefficient for both of our clients.

The County submits that it would be less costly and more efficient for the parties to proceed on the legal question, which would initially only require the demurrer. The legal question can be decided based on the first 9 paragraphs and 81 onward. If you are willing to reconsider, please let me know by Tuesday, January 18, 2022, otherwise I will assume we continue to disagree.

The County has reserved February 24, 2022 at 8:30 am as the date for the demurrer and motion to strike. Let me know immediately if there is a conflict.

Thank you,

Michael

Code, § 6103.)

1     I.     INTRODUCTION

2             This case arises from the Placer County Board of Supervisors’ efforts to negotiate and 3     determine compensation for deputy sheriffs in order to provide salary increases greater than what 4     the formula the parties have historically used would provide, and the Deputy Sheriffs’
5     Association’s attempt to prevent the Board from exercising their authority – and fulfilling their 6     obligation as elected representatives – to do so. Petitioners argue that the Board has no authority
7     to determine or even negotiate over salary due to a 1976 ballot initiative, Measure F, which on its 8     face conflicts with the Constitution, the MMBA, and the County Charter. The County has 9     repeatedly explained to the DSA the legal grounds for why a ballot initiative depriving the Board
10    of Supervisors of authority to negotiate and set compensation is void and unenforceable.

11            Case law showing Measure F is unconstitutional is well-established. Nonetheless, the 12    DSA continues the present charade, presenting arguments that are facially specious and blatantly
13    mischaracterizing both governing law and the County’s legal arguments. While Petitioners claim
14    that their goal is to protect the will of the voters, Placer County voters enacted a County Charter 15    in 1980 that expressly designates the Board of Supervisors as responsible for negotiating and 16    setting compensation, and the voters go to the polls every two years to select their representatives
17    on the Board. Petitioners seek to deprive the Board of its constitutional and charter-given 18    authority to determine salaries, and to deprive both the Board and themselves of the right to 19    negotiate salaries. This Court should disregard these spurious arguments, and sustain the 20    demurrer without leave to amend.

22            A.     PETITIONERS’ ARGUMENTS IN SUPPORT OF THE FIRST CAUSE OF 23            ACTION ARE UNAVAILING

24            1.     The Opposition Fails To Address a Well-Established Exception to the 25            Presumptively Broad Right of Initiative.

26            Petitioners repeatedly assert that the right to initiative is generally coextensive with the 27    legislative power of the local governing body; however, the Opposition conveniently omits the 28    exception to this rule that forms the basis for the County’s demurrer, namely that in certain cases,

1 authority over a particular matter is “delegated exclusively to the County’s governing body,
2 precluding the right to initiative and referendum.” (Gates v. Blakemore (2019) 39 Cal.App.5th 32,
3 38, [citing DeVita v. City of Napa (1995) 9 Cal.4th 763 , 776]; Citizens for Jobs & the Economy
4 v. County of Orange (2002) 94 Cal.App.4th 1311, 1326.) Instead, the Opposition disingenuously
5 argues that the County’s constitutional argument is premised solely on the holdings of Meldrim v.
6 Board of Supervisors (1976) 57 Cal.App.3d 341 and Jahr v. Casebeer (1999) 70 Cal.App.4th
7 1250, which addressed a separate constitutional sentence. By so doing, Petitioners avoid the clear
8 legal question before this Court: Can a local initiative divest the County’s governing body of the 9 right and duty to negotiate and set salaries for County employees? The answer is “no.”

10 The County demurs on the grounds that Measure F as enacted in 1976 violates Article XI, 11 Section 1(b) of the California Constitution by depriving the Board of Supervisors of its 12 constitutional authority to set employee compensation. Section 1(b) assigns the authority to set 13 compensation for County employees specifically to the county’s “governing body.” Meldrim and 14 Jahr show how Courts of Appeal have interpreted the term “governing body” in the analogous 15 situation of supervisor compensation. That situation may be covered by a different sentence in 16 Section 1(b), but that sentence is nonetheless part of the very same section of the Constitution;
17 Petitioners would have this Court infer that the term “governing body” carries a different meaning 18 in two sentences of the same constitutional provision.

19 Petitioners mischaracterize the rulings of both Meldrim and Jahr when they assert that 20 “The courts reasoned that the Legislature’s inclusion of the term ‘referendum’ indicated that the 21 Legislature intended to foreclose the right to initiative as to supervisors’ compensation.”
22 (Opposition, p. 11.) This assertion conflates two separate legal issues in an attempt to minimize 23 the import of the decisions. The Court in Meldrim unambiguously stated that it based its holding 24 – that supervisor compensation is not subject to initiative – entirely on the clear assignment of 25 compensation-setting authority to the “Governing body (and not the ‘county’ or the ‘voters’).”
26 (Meldrim, supra, 57 Cal.App.3d at 343.) Contrary to Petitioners’ assertion, the Meldrim decision 27 was not “predicated upon” the specific mention that supervisor compensation is subject to 28 referendum. The decision’s discussion of that issue appears only later in the decision – after

1 stating that further explanation of the Court’s interpretation of Section 1(b) was “unnecessary” –
2 to reject a counter-argument that the inclusion of the word “referendum” carried with it an 3 implied right to initiative. (Id. at 345.) Jahr similarly addressed as independent questions whether 4 the term “governing body” includes “voters” and whether an express right of referendum implies
5 a right of initiative. (Jahr, supra, 70 Cal.App.4th at 1254-55.) The court answered “no” to both.

6 To summarize, the County demurs on the principle that – although the initiative power is 7 generally broad – where the Constitution delegates exclusive authority to a county’s “governing 8 body” this precludes the right to initiative. (Gates, supra, 39 Cal.App.5th at 38.) As with 9 compensation for county supervisors, Section 1(b) specifically delegates authority over county
10 employee compensation to the “governing body.” Meldrim and Jahr held the term “governing 11 body” as used in Section 1(b) excludes the electorate. Similarly, Section 302 of the County
12 Charter assigns authority even more clearly to the “Board of Supervisors.”

13 The Opposition never addresses the County’s argument that Measure F unconstitutionally 14 restricts the Board of Supervisors’ ability to determine the Sheriff’s Office budget by taking the 15 largest contributing factor – deputy salaries – out of the Board’s hands. (See Totten v. Board of 16 Supervisors (2006) 139 Cal.App.4th 826.)

17 2. Kugler v. Yocum and Spencer v. City of Alhambra Are Distinguishable.

18 The Opposition repeatedly argues that Kugler v. Yocum (1968) 69 Cal.2d 371, and 19 Spencer v. City of Alhambra (1941) 44 Cal.App.2d 75, have affirmed the right to set public
20 employee compensation by initiative. But neither of these cases are relevant to the interpretation
21 of Article XI, Section 1(b) of the Constitution. Kugler addressed whether an initiative was a 22 proper means to fix a minimum salary for firefighters in the City of Alhambra. (Kugler, supra, 23 69 Cal.2d at 373.) Spencer addressed a similar, earlier, initiative for police officers in the same 24 city. (Spencer, supra, 44 Cal.App.2d at 76.) Both decisions concluded that the initiative was a 25 proper exercise of the initiative power under the City Charter, which granted the electorate the 26 right to adopt any ordinance which the City Council might enact. (Kugler, supra, 69 Cal.2d at 27 374; Spencer, supra, 44 Cal.App.2d at 78.) Thus, both decisions concerned the provisions of a 28 city charter, “which by and large is the supreme law as to municipal affairs.” (Meldrim, supra,

1 57 Cal.App.3d at 345 [citing Duran v. Cassidy (1972) 28 Cal.App.3d 574, 583].)

2 By contrast, when Measure F appeared on the ballot in 1976, Placer County was a general
3 law county, meaning that the proper delegation of salary-setting authority was governed
4 exclusively by the Constitution, Article XI, Section 1(b). Neither Kugler nor Spencer ever 5 addressed this constitutional provision, which applies only to counties, not to cities. Thus, these 6 cases are irrelevant to the interpretation and enforcement of Section 1(b).

7 3. The Opposition Misconstrues Voters for Responsible Retirement.

8 The Opposition boldly asserts that Voters for Responsible Retirement v. Board of 9 Supervisors (1994) 8 Cal.4th 765 (“VFRR”) “unequivocally foreclosed” the County’s argument
10 regarding Section 1(b) and that VFRR “broadly supports initiative powers over local employee 11 compensation.” This assertion fundamentally misconstrues the decision in that case.

12 As the Fourth District Court of Appeal noted, “[t]he Supreme Court [in VFRR] was 13 focused on whether employee compensation was subject to referendum, not whether 14 [compensation setting] could be accomplished through initiative.” (Center for Community Action 15 & Environmental Justice v. City of Moreno Valley (2018) 26 Cal.App.5th 689, 702.) The only 16 discussion in VFRR regarding Article XI, Section 1(b) specifically concerns the referendum 17 power: The respondent argued that the specific language that county supervisor compensation is 18 subject to referendum implied that other compensation decisions were not; the appellant argued 19 that legislative history showed a clear intent to subject employee compensation decisions to 20 referendum; the Court rejected both arguments, concluding that Section 1(b) neither guarantees
21 nor restricts the right to referendum over employee compensation. (Id. at 648-651.)

22 Other than collective references to the electorate’s “initiative and referendum powers,” 23 VFRR never addresses the scope of the initiative power specifically.<sup>1</sup> (E.g. id. at 652.) Several 24 subsequent court decisions have expressly rejected the suggestion that initiative and referendum
25 powers are always coextensive. (E.g. Jahr, supra, 70 Cal.App.4th at 1259; Center for Community 26 Action, supra, 26 Cal.App.5th at 706.) Of these, Jahr, discussed above, recognized the decision in

28 Comp. Appeals Bd. (1999) 19 Cal.4th 1182, 1195.)

1 VFRR, and still reaffirmed the holding in Meldrim that Section 1(b)'s delegation of 2 compensation-setting authority to the "governing body" precludes legislation by initiative.

3 The various broad statements in VFRR about the general scope of the initiative power are 4 at best dicta. They have no bearing on whether the specific assignment of compensation-setting
5 authority to the Board of Supervisors precludes legislation by initiative.

6 4. The County's Ability To Provide Employment Benefits Other than 7 Salary Does Not Cure Measure F's Constitutional Invalidity, Nor Does 8 it Make Measure F Consistent With the County Charter.

9 At several points, the Opposition argues that Measure F is consistent with the Board's 10 authority to set compensation – under either the Constitution or the County Charter – because its 11 formula only governs "salary" and not the whole field of "compensation." This argument gets the 12 issue backwards. As the Opposition concedes, compensation is a broad term that includes both 13 salary and other benefits. Courts have repeatedly held that a statute cannot infringe on the 14 governing body's constitutional authority over compensation, even if it would only govern one 15 aspect of total compensation. In both In re Work Uniform Cases (2005) 133 Cal.App.4th 328,
16 338, and Curcini v. County of Alameda (2008) 164 Cal.App.4th 629, 643, the First District Court
17 of Appeal held that various Labor Code provisions – on uniform allowances and overtime pay,
18 respectively – could not apply to counties because they would interfere with the governing body's 19 exclusive authority over "compensation" under Section 1(b). Following that reasoning, 20 Petitioners' argument that it would be consistent with the Constitution – or the Charter, which 21 similarly provides the Board with broad authority over employee "compensation" – to take away
22 the Board's authority over the single largest aspect of compensation is clearly specious.

23 The Opposition's only other response to the argument that the County Charter legally 24 superseded Measure F is a brief statement that the enactment of Charter Section 607 "bolstered 25 the initiative powers of the Placer County [electorate]."<sup>2</sup> However, Charter Section 607 is 26 irrelevant to the validity of Measure F: Measure F was enacted in 1976, prior to the Charter. And 27 _____

28 <sup>2</sup> Section 607(a) of the County charter states that the electors of Placer County may "by majority vote and pursuant to general law ... Exercise the powers of initiative and referendum."

1 at no point after 1980 have Placer County voters enacted a similar ballot initiative. If, arguendo,
2 voters had authority to re-enact Measure F after 1980, they have not done so.<sup>3</sup>

3                   5. Any Non-Initiative Action to Adopt or Implement the Measure F
4                   Formula Is Irrelevant to Whether Measure F Is Enforceable As a 5                   Ballot Initiative For Purposes of Elections Code § 9125.

6           The Opposition makes much of the fact that over the years various traditional County
7 ordinances and resolutions – i.e. Board actions that were not enacted by way of initiative – have 8 adopted or implemented the salary-setting formula originally set forth in Measure F, such as by 9 codifying the formula in County Code section 3.12.040, or incorporating it into the County’s
10 labor agreement with the DSA. Petitioners also cite to a 2003 editorial in the Auburn Journal by 11 then-County CEO Jan Christofferson discussing Measure F. The County does not dispute that 12 these events occurred, but they are also irrelevant to the Petitioners’ claim that the County’s
13 repeal of Section 3.12.040 in September 2021 violated Elections Code section 9125.

14           Section 9125 provides: “No ordinance proposed by initiative petition and adopted either 15 by the board of supervisors without submission to the voters or adopted by the voters shall be 16 repealed or amended except by a vote of the people, unless provision is otherwise made in the 17 original ordinance.” The plain statutory language shows that this only applies to an ordinance 18 “proposed by initiative petition.” To the extent the County may have enacted a traditional 19 ordinance setting a salary formula, incorporated a salary formula into a labor agreement, or 20 implemented a policy of providing salary increases according to a formula, none of these actions
21 fall under the protection of Section 9125, and any of them could be repealed or withdrawn
22 without voter approval. A newspaper editorial by a County official certainly would not create an 23 enforceable ballot initiative where none previously existed. Accordingly, none of these issues
24 have any bearing on whether the County’s repeal of Section 3.12.040 violated Section 9125.

25           To the extent Petitioners are arguing that prior representations and actions by the County

26 _____
27 <sup>3</sup> As discussed in more detail below, the failed attempts to repeal Measure F by way of a ballot 28 measure are not equivalent to an initiative petition affirmatively enacting the same provision. And the County maintains that even after 1980, and even if enacted as a Charter Amendment, a ballot initiative containing the same terms as Measure F would still be preempted by the MMBA.

1 which (expressly or implicitly) suggested Measure F was legally binding now estop the County
2 from asserting that Measure F was constitutionally invalid from the start, that argument fails as a 3 matter of law, for several reasons. First, in order for estoppel to apply, a representation must 4 generally be a statement of fact; a statement about a legal issue – such as the constitutionality of a 5 ballot measure – does not preclude the party making it from later changing its position. (Steinhart
6 v. County of Los Angeles (2010) 47 Cal.4th 1298, 1315 [citing McKeen v. Naughton (1891)
7 88 Cal. 462, 467].) Second, estoppel may not be invoked to contravene constitutional provisions
8 that define a public entity’s powers. (Longshore v. County of Ventura (1979) 25 Cal.3d 14, 28 9 “[N]o court has expressly invoked principles of estoppel to contravene directly any statutory or 10 constitutional limitations.”.) Third, the law particularly disfavors estoppel where the party raising 11 the argument is represented by counsel, as attorneys are charged with knowledge of the law in 12 California. (Kunstman v. Mirizzi (1965) 234 Cal.App.2d 753, 757; Tubbs v. Southern Cal. Rapid 13 Transit Dist. (1967) 67 Cal.2d 671, 679.) Here, Petitioners were represented by Counsel who had 14 equal access to the state constitution, county charter and the MMBA at all relevant times.

15 6. The Failed 2002 and 2006 Ballot Measures Have No Legal Effect.

16 Intermingled with its arguments about other County actions and representations, the 17 Opposition places particular emphasis on the election results of 2002 and 2006, when Measure R
18 (2002) and Measure A (2006) proposed to repeal County Code section 3.12.040, and both 19 measures were rejected by the voters. (Opposition pp. 14-15.) Petitioners argue that “any alleged 20 defects regard[ing] the 1976 enactment were cured by the 2002 and 2006 initiative elections to 21 retain it.” (Opposition p. 14.) This argument is fundamentally flawed for two reasons.

22 First, the Opposition presupposes that the 2002 and 2006 election results had some legal 23 effect, even though both measures failed. As a matter of law, a failed legislative action has no
24 legal effect whatsoever. Whatever the legal status of Measure F was at the time of each repeal 25 attempt, a failed ballot measure does not – and cannot – affect that status in the slightest. Second,
26 neither Measure R nor Measure A were initiatives. An initiative is an ordinance enacted through 27 Elections Code sections 9100 to 9126, including a petition and a signature-gathering process.
28 Neither Measure R nor Measure A were placed on the ballot through this procedure. Rather, both measures were placed on the ballot directly by a Board resolution at the request of the DSA. (See Petition, Exhibits A and C [as corrected in Petitioners' February 17, 2022 Notice of Errata].)

With this in mind, it is readily apparent that the 2002 and 2006 elections cannot support Petitioners' claim that the County violated Elections Code section 9125. Again, Section 9125 prohibits the County from repealing or amending without voter approval any "ordinance proposed by initiative petition and adopted either by the board of supervisors without submission to the voters or adopted by the voters." Neither Measure R nor Measure A qualify for this protection: neither measure was an "ordinance proposed by initiative petition," neither was ever adopted either by the Board or by the voters, and neither measure addressed the Board's authority under the Charter. These elections are simply irrelevant to Petitioners' causes of action.

7. The MMBA Preempts Local Laws That Interfere With Collective Bargaining Procedure.

Responding to the County's argument that Measure F fails to leave room for either party to negotiate over salary, the Opposition argues that "the mere fact that the subject matter of an initiative is within the scope of bargaining under the MMBA, does not automatically mean that the MMBA preempts it" and that the MMBA "merely requires that the governing body meet and confer with the union prior to placing such initiatives on the ballot." (Opposition, p. 17.) This is a disingenuous mischaracterization of both the County's argument and the applicable law, and entirely misses the point. The cases cited in the Opposition – Boling v. Public Employment Relations Board (2018) 5 Cal.5th 898 and People ex rel. Seal Beach Police Officers Assn. v. City of Seal Beach (1984) 36 Cal.3d 591 – discuss the MMBA's restrictions relating to when a public agency can sponsor a ballot initiative affecting negotiable subjects. This is a separate issue from whether the MMBA preempts the actual substance of the initiative.

As the Supreme Court held in VFRR, it is indisputable that the procedures set forth in the MMBA – including the process by which salaries are fixed – are a matter of statewide concern and preempt inconsistent local procedures. (VFRR, supra, 8 Cal.4th at 781.) In particular, mandatory negotiable subjects, such as wages, cannot be declared "nonnegotiable." (Huntington Beach Police Officers' Assn. v. City of Huntington Beach (1976) 58 Cal.App.3d 492, 503-505.)

1 In cases where courts have assessed whether prevailing-wage statutes conflict with the 2 MMBA, they have been careful to note that voter-enacted restrictions on the collective bargaining
3 process are only appropriate to the extent they leave the governing body a considerable degree of 4 discretion. For example, in City of Fresno v. People ex rel. Fresno Firefighters, IAFF Local 753
5 (1999) 71 Cal.App.4th 82, the Court of Appeal upheld a prevailing-wage charter provision
6 because it only set the City's initial bargaining position, noting that "[d]ifferent considerations
7 would be involved if the charter section in question actually set wages." Here, Measure F actually
8 sets wages. By setting a fixed formula for setting deputies' salaries every year in perpetuity, it 9 fundamentally changes the parties' bargaining procedure, removing salaries from the scope of 10 bargaining and declaring it non-negotiable. This is clearly inconsistent with the MMBA.

11 B. THE SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION FAILS

12 1. Petitioners Failed to Respond to the First Stated Grounds for the 13 County's Demurrer to the Second Cause of Action.

14 The County demurred to the Second Cause of Action on two grounds. The first is that the 15 Second Cause of Action is entirely derivative of the First Cause of Action, and therefore 16 necessarily fails if the First Cause of Action fails. The Opposition does not appear to dispute that 17 the Second Cause of Action is derivative of the First. Indeed, the Opposition confirms that the 18 Second Cause of Action presupposes that the 1976 ballot initiative is enforceable. (Opposition, 19 p. 19:7-15.) Because the First Cause of Action fails as a matter of law, the Second also fails.

20 2. To the Extent the Second Cause of Action Attempts to Assert a 21 Constitutional Claim, It Remains Uncertain.

22 The County also demurred to the Second Cause of Action on the grounds that its 23 statement that the United States and California Constitutions, along with Placer County Code
24 section 3.12.040, "create a clear, present, and ministerial duty under the law" for the County to set 25 deputy sheriffs' compensation according to the Measure F formula, was uncertain. (Demurrer, 26 p. 14.) The Opposition explains that "the Constitution" requires courts to "fashion protections 27 against efforts to nullify the will of the voters" and that this somehow forms a basis for a 28 constitutional cause of action "separate and independent from the requirements of [Elections

1 Code] Section 9125.” (Opposition, p. 19.)

2 This still leaves fatally uncertain the question of what specific cause of action the Petition
3 is attempting to assert, and thus what legal questions the County must address in responding to it.
4 And notably, although the Petition specifically cites to the United States Constitution, the 5 Opposition does not at any point reference any provision of federal law, either constitutional or 6 otherwise. If, as the Petition alleges, there is a federal constitutional claim alleged therein (in 7 which case this matter would be subject to federal jurisdiction and removal to federal court) the 8 County has no way to ascertain what such a claim might be.

9 C. PETITIONERS FAILED TO OPPOSE THE COUNTY’S DEMURRER TO 10 THE THIRD CAUSE OF ACTION

11 The County demurred to the Third Cause of Action on the grounds that it is wholly 12 derivative of substantive claims that are invalid as a matter of law. (Ball v. FleetBoston Fin’l 13 Corp. (2008) 164 Cal. App. 4th 794, 800.) The Opposition does not respond to this portion of the 14 County’s demurrer. Failure to oppose a motion is a constructive concession to the merits of the 15 motion on the grounds set forth in the moving papers. Accordingly, if the Court sustains the 16 County’s demurrers to the first and second causes of action – which for the reasons explained
17 above it must – Petitioners’ failure to oppose the County’s demurrer to the derivative request for 18 declaratory relief must also be sustained.

19 III. CONCLUSION

20 For the reasons outlined above and in the County’s original filing, the Demurrer to each 21 and every cause of action should be sustained. As explained in the County’s original filing, 22 amendment would be futile, and leave to amend should be denied.

11 SHERIFFS' ASSOCIATION and NOAH
12 FREDERITO,

13 Petitioners,

14 v.

15 COUNTY OF PLACER,

16 Respondent.

Case No.: S-CV-0047770

RESPONDENT'S REPLY TO PETITIONER'S OPPOSITION TO RESPONDENT'S MOTION

1     I.     INTRODUCTION

2             The County moved to strike various portions of the Petition for the simple reason that – in 3     addition to facts relevant to their causes of action – Petitioners include a large amount of 4     unnecessary factual allegations. The causes of action alleged are that the County violated
5     Elections Code section 9125 by repealing County Code section 3.12.040 and violated that same 6     ordinance by imposing salary increases on DSA members above what the ordinance would 7     provide. These claims ultimately boil down to whether or not Section 3.12.040 reflects a valid
8     and enforceable initiative ordinance. Petitioners’ extraneous allegations about bargaining history, 9     failed ballot measures, the parties’ motivations, and other topics are neither relevant nor pertinent
10    to Petitioners’ causes of action, and serve only to confuse the issues at hand by raising a host of 11    tangential grievances. The arguments in Petitioners’ Opposition to the Motion to Strike merely 12    confirm that the disputed allegations are irrelevant to Petitioners’ causes of action. This Court 13    should grant the County’s motion to strike in its entirety in order to focus the pleadings on the 14    pertinent factual allegations, which will facilitate a prompt adjudication on the merits of the case.

16           A.    THE COUNTY COMPLIED WITH ITS STATUTORY OBLIGATION TO 17           MEET AND CONFER OVER ITS MOTION TO STRIKE.

18           The Opposition alleges that the County failed to make a good faith attempt to meet and 19    confer over its motion to strike. Petitioners’ discussion is replete with blatant misrepresentations
20    of the parties’ meet and confer efforts. For instance, Petitioners describe the telephone call 21    between the parties’ counsel on January 12, 2022, as a “very brief conversation.” In fact, the 22    phone call lasted just under an hour. (Declaration of Lars Reed in Support of Reply [“Reed
23    Decl.”] ¶ 3.) During the nearly hour-long conversation, the parties’ counsel engaged in extended
24    discussion regarding the County’s concern that each one of the disputed paragraphs were 25    irrelevant to the legal questions raised by the Petition. (Reed Decl. ¶¶ 5-6.) Petitioners’ counsel 26    proposed various theories of relevance – the same ones described in the Opposition – and the 27    County’s counsel explained why each asserted theory of relevance was unrelated to the causes of 28    action set forth in the Petition. (Ibid.) The parties’ counsel spoke again on January 28, 2022, after

Petitioners filed their amended petition. (Reed Decl. ¶ 8.) Given that the vast majority of the remaining disputed paragraphs were entirely unchanged, neither party's counsel had anything new to add and the second phone call was significantly shorter. (Reed Decl. ¶¶ 9-10.) Although the parties did not reach an informal resolution, both parties' counsel engaged in a serious effort to discuss the objections, comparing viewpoints, and deliberating. (Reed Decl. ¶ 11.)

B. THE MATERIAL THE COUNTY SEEKS TO STRIKE IS IRRELEVANT.

1. Petitioners' general theories of relevance are inapplicable.

a. Attorneys' fees

The Opposition asserts that each and every challenged paragraph is relevant to a request for attorneys' fees. However, this is not a reason for keeping the disputed allegations in the pleadings; a motion for attorney fees is incidental to the cause of action and can rely on evidence outside the merits of the case (Graham v. DaimlerChrysler Corp. (2004) 34 Cal.4th 553, 576-77; Active Properties, LLC v. Cabrera (2016) 6 Cal.App.5th Supp. 6, 14-15.). Moreover, the majority of the challenged paragraphs appear to allege a failure to negotiate in good faith, which falls within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Public Employment Relations Board ("PERB"). As stated in paragraph 42 of the Petition, the DSA already has a pending unfair practice charge regarding these issues. The assertion that their irrelevant allegations were included to support a claim for fees thus indicates that Petitioners are improperly conflating their Elections Code claim with their pending UPC in an attempt to get a court order for fees if they cannot get one from PERB.

b. Damages

For each and every challenged paragraph, the Opposition asserts that the disputed allegations are relevant to damages. However, the Opposition never provides any further explanation of how these allegations are relevant to the calculation of potential damages; it merely states that they are. Moreover, the Petition itself makes it abundantly clear that Petitioners have in fact suffered no damages at all. The Petition challenges two specific County actions: The repeal of an ordinance, which does not by itself have any direct effect on compensation; and the imposition of salary raises that exceed what the ordinance would have allowed. (See Petition, Exhibits H and J.) In other words, according to the Petition, the challenged County actions have

1 resulted in Petitioner Frederito and other deputies represented by the DSA receiving more money,
2 not less. Moreover, several of the challenged paragraphs relate solely to compensation setting for 3 County employees not represented by Petitioners, and thus have no conceivable relevance to any 4 potential award of damages to Petitioners.

5 c. “Credibility determinations”

6 The Opposition asserts for a number of the challenged paragraphs that the disputed 7 allegations are relevant to “credibility determinations.” As stated in the County’s Motion to 8 Strike, this case presents a handful of questions of law: Whether Measure F was a valid ballot
9 initiative in 1976, whether it was legally superseded by the County Charter, whether the County
10 had legal authority to repeal County Code section 3.12.040 in September of 2021, and whether 11 the County had legal authority to subsequently impose pay raises greater than the Measure F
12 salary formula would provide. All of these are questions of law that can be resolved on the basis
13 of undisputed facts subject to judicial notice. Accordingly, no party’s credibility is at issue in this 14 case, and vague references to “credibility determinations” is insufficient to establish that the 15 challenged paragraphs have any relevance to Petitioners’ causes of action.

16 2. The specific theories of relevance for each disputed paragraph are all 17 unrelated to the causes of action raised in the Petition.

18 a. Paragraphs 12, 14, 15

19 The Opposition states that Paragraphs 12, 14, and 15, which concern failed ballot 20 measures attempting to repeal Placer County Code section 3.12.040 in 2002 and 2006 – which the 21 County put on the ballot at the DSA’s request (See Petition, Exhibits A and C, as corrected by 22 Petitioners’ Notice of Errata filed February 17, 2022) – “are relevant to the County’s claim that 23 Measure F was eliminated by enactment of the Charter” and are relevant to establishing that 24 Measure F could not be repealed without voter approval. The Opposition also states that the 25 County’s request for judicial notice regarding the results of the 1976 and 1980 elections are a 26 “tacit admission that the facts set forth in the Petition are relevant.” These assertions are 27 bordering on nonsensical.

28 As a matter of law, a failed ballot measure has no legal effect whatsoever, and thus could

1 not possibly be relevant to determining whether the County had authority to repeal
2 Section 3.12.040 without submitting the question to the voters. The County requested judicial 3 notice of two ballot measures that actually passed: Measure F, which is the subject of the lawsuit,
4 and the County Charter, which forms one of the grounds for the County’s demurrer and defense.
5 While the County does not dispute that the 2002 and 2006 elections are subject to judicial notice,
6 the County vigorously disputes their relevance as stated above. These allegations also have no
7 conceivable relevance to the amount of any potential damages.

8 b. Paragraphs 10, 11, 13, 30, and 38-41

9 The Opposition states that Paragraphs 10, 11, 13, 30, and 38-41, which contain allegations
10 about representations and public statements allegedly made by County representatives, are 11 relevant “evidence of voter intent when voting for or against Measure F.” Given that none of the 12 alleged statements took place prior to the 1976 election, when voters actually voted on Measure
13 F, the County assumes the Petitioners are referring to voter intent when voting for or against the 14 failed repeal efforts. But again, given that the repeal efforts failed and have no legal effect 15 whatsoever, the voters’ intent is similarly irrelevant to anything.

16 Petitioners also claim that these paragraphs are “relevant to show that between 1980 and 17 2003 county officials have construed [County Code Section] 3.12.040 as compatible with the 18 Charter.” The only possible relevance to how County officials have construed or represented
19 Measure F in the past is as an argument that prior representations (or misrepresentations), now
20 estop the County from asserting the legal position that Measure F is void and superseded by the 21 County Charter. That argument fails as a matter of law: mistaken statements about a legal 22 proposition cannot create an estoppel, and estoppel may not be invoked to contravene
23 constitutional or statutory limitations. (Steinhart v. County of Los Angeles (2010) 47 Cal.4th 24 1298, 1315; Longshore v. County of Ventura (1979) 25 Cal. 3d 14, 28.)

25 For these reasons, these paragraphs are irrelevant to Petitioners’ causes of action. They 26 also have no conceivable relevance to the amount of any potential damages.

c. Paragraph 16

The Opposition states that Paragraph 16 is relevant to establishing “the DSA’s position as it relates to collective bargaining regarding Measure F and section 3.12.040” and that it is relevant “that the County only construed Measure F as in conflict with the Charter when the DSA would not submit to the County’s demands that the DSA subvert the will of Placer County voters.” None of this is relevant to the Petitioners’ causes of action. Whether Measure F was a valid ballot initiative is a question of law; whether the County had the authority to repeal the County ordinance containing Measure F’s salary formula is a question of law; whether the County had legal authority to impose pay raises greater than that salary formula is a question of law. Neither the DSA’s bargaining position nor the timing of when the County first raised the issue that the Charter and Measure F were incompatible are relevant to a determination of any one of those questions. They also have no conceivable relevance to the amount of any potential damages.

d. Paragraphs 17-19 and 21

The Opposition states that Paragraphs 17-19 and 21, which contain allegations of the parties’ past practice of working around the restrictions of Measure F without ever addressing the issue of whether those restrictions were legally valid, are relevant to showing that “the parties interpreted Measure F in a consistent manner and shows a course of conduct of both parties regarding their understanding of Measure F.” Unless this is asserting an estoppel argument – which would fail as a matter of law for the reasons set forth above – there is no conceivable way this is relevant to determining whether Measure F was a valid ballot initiative in 1976, whether it was legally superseded by the County Charter, whether the County had legal authority to repeal County Code section 3.12.040, or whether the County had legal authority to impose pay raises greater than the Measure F salary formula.

The Opposition also states that these paragraphs are relevant to “credibility determinations, including the position of the parties in collective bargaining over time.” As stated above, Petitioners’ causes of action raise only legal questions that can be adjudicated on the basis of undisputed facts subject to judicial notice; No party’s credibility is at issue in this case. These allegations also have no conceivable relevance to the amount of any potential damages.

e. Paragraph 20

The Opposition states that Paragraph 20, which concerns a prior amendment to County Code section 3.12.040 that did not affect the salary-setting formula for deputy sheriffs is relevant on the grounds that “were section 3.12.040 negated by the Charter, the County would have no need to amend the code section.” This assertion is more nonsense. The County’s position is that Measure F (the ballot initiative) was superseded by the County Charter, and that Placer County Code section 3.12.040 (an ordinance mirroring its terms) was therefore a normal County ordinance subject to repeal or amendment without voter approval. Accordingly, the County’s prior – and unchallenged – amendment of that ordinance is not relevant to determining whether Measure F was a valid ballot initiative in 1976, whether it was legally superseded by the County Charter, whether the County had legal authority to repeal County Code section 3.12.040, or whether the County had legal authority to impose pay raises greater than the Measure F salary formula. This paragraph also has no conceivable relevance to the amount of any potential damages, particularly given that it does not relate to compensation for DSA members generally or Petitioner Frederito specifically.

f. Paragraphs 22 and 23

The Opposition asserts that Paragraphs 22 and 23, which consist of unsupported speculation regarding the county’s motives for repealing Section 3.12.040 and the County’s legal position regarding its authority to do so are relevant because “allegations made upon information and belief are decidedly appropriate at the complaint stage” and that they are relevant to “whether the County knew it did not have the legal authority to repeal Measure F unilaterally.” The County does not dispute that allegations made upon information and belief are appropriate when relevant; however, whether (or when) the County “knew” or believed anything about its authority to repeal Section 3.12.040 or lack thereof is entirely irrelevant to the Petitioners’ causes of action. The Petition raises the legal questions whether Measure F was a valid ballot initiative in 1976, whether it was legally superseded by the County Charter, whether the County had legal authority to repeal County Code section 3.12.040, and whether the County had legal authority to impose pay raises greater than the Measure F salary formula. All of these are questions of law that can be

1 resolved on the basis of undisputed facts subject to judicial notice; neither party's knowledge or 2 motives are in any way pertinent to a determination of these questions. These allegations also 3 have no conceivable relevance to the amount of any potential damages.

4 g. Paragraph 24

5 The Opposition asserts that Paragraph 24, which concerns the County's policy for 6 determining compensation for members of the County Board of Supervisors, using a similar 7 formula to the one specified in Measure F, "is relevant to show the County's position on the 8 legality of Measure F over time." This assertion is yet more nonsense. No party to this case has 9 ever made the argument that Measure F's salary formula in and of itself is unlawful; the question
10 at hand is whether a ballot initiative can force the County to utilize that formula and force both
11 parties to forgo negotiations over compensation. Given that there is no allegation that the County
12 is required to use this formula for members of the County Board of Supervisors, and given that 13 Supervisors have no collective bargaining rights under the Meyers-Milias-Brown Act or any other
14 law, the County's use of this or any other salary setting formula for Supervisors has no
15 conceivable relevance to the legal questions at hand: whether Measure F was a valid ballot
16 initiative in 1976, whether it was legally superseded by the County Charter, whether the County
17 had legal authority to repeal County Code section 3.12.040, and whether the County had legal 18 authority to impose pay raises for deputy sheriffs greater than the Measure F salary formula. This 19 paragraph also has no conceivable relevance to the amount of any potential damages, particularly 20 given that it relates solely to compensation for members of the Board of Supervisors.

21 h. Paragraphs 25-34, 47-48, and 52-53

22 The Opposition states that Paragraphs 25-34, 47-48, and 52-53, which concern the party's 23 collective bargaining from 2018 through a declaration of impasse, are "relevant because they 24 demonstrate the County's position upon which Petitioners relied during collective bargaining and 25 negotiations." But the parties' conduct during collective bargaining, including the extent to which 26 the Petitioners may have relied on the County's statements about its own position, are equally 27 irrelevant to Petitioners' causes of action. It appears the Petitioners are attempting to raise 28 allegations of bad faith bargaining conduct, which are not relevant to a determination of the

1 alleged violation of Elections Code 9125, and which would fall under the exclusive initial 2 jurisdiction of the Public Employment Relations Board. Accordingly, these allegations are 3 improper and should be stricken.

4 The Opposition also states these paragraphs are “relevant to the amount of discretion the 5 Board of Supervisors retains over setting compensation.” This statement is inconsistent with the 6 core of the Petitioners’ second cause of action, which asserts that the County had no discretion
7 whatsoever to deviate from Measure F’s salary-setting formula. The extent to which the County 8 may have had discretion to provide benefits other than salary is irrelevant to the determination of 9 whether Measure F’s prescriptive formula for setting salaries was constitutionally invalid when 10 the voters approved it in 1976, or whether it was superseded by the County Charter in 1980, and 11 is therefore irrelevant to whether the County had legal authority to amend Section 3.12.040 in 12 2021 or to subsequently impose pay raises greater than what Measure F would allow. These 13 allegations also have no conceivable relevance to the amount of any potential damages.

14 i. Paragraphs 35-37 and 58-63

15 The Opposition states that Paragraphs 35-37 and 58-63, which concern a statutory 16 factfinding proceeding the parties participated in, is “inherently relevant to the dispute as the 17 factfinding process thoroughly developed the background of the dispute, and examined the legal 18 positions of both parties” and that the factfinding report is judicially noticeable. But given that a 19 factfinding report issued pursuant to the MMBA is advisory only (Gov. Code, § 3505.5) the 20 report’s “examination” of the parties’ legal positions has no legal significance and is due no
21 deference from this Court. And once again, the actual causes of action raised in the Petition are 22 purely legal questions that can be adjudicated based on undisputed facts are subject to judicial 23 notice. As such, allegations regarding the factfinding process and report are irrelevant to a judicial 24 determination of whether the County had authority to amend County Code Section 3.12.040 or to 25 impose salary increases greater than the Measure F formula would provide. These allegations also 26 have no conceivable relevance to the amount of any potential damages.

28 ///

j. Paragraphs 42-45

The Opposition states that Paragraphs 42-45, which concern the DSA's unfair labor practice charge currently pending before PERB, are relevant "because they demonstrate the County's position upon which Petitioners relied during collective bargaining and negotiations." But again, unless the DSA is asserting an estoppel argument (which fails as a matter of law because the County cannot be estopped from asserting a legal position with respect to constitutional or statutory law) or a claim of bad faith bargaining (which is subject to the exclusive initial jurisdiction of PERB) the County's stated position and any reliance the Petitioners may have had on such statements are simply not relevant. The actual causes of action in the Petition raise only purely legal questions that can be adjudicated on the basis of a small set of undisputed facts that are subject to judicial notice. These allegations also have no conceivable relevance to the amount of any potential damages.

k. Paragraphs 46 and 49-50

Paragraphs 46 and 49-50 consist of unsupported speculation about the County's motives for making negotiation proposals. The Opposition asserts that "[t]he County's motives for its repeatedly changing position on the legality and validity of Measure F are relevant to demonstrate the County's position over time, and to assist the Court in making credibility determinations." But once again, the County's position over time is irrelevant: Whether the County in fact had authority to amend Section 3.12.040 in September 2021 is a question of law, as is whether the County had authority to impose pay raises greater than what Measure F would provide. And these legal questions can be determined entirely from undisputed facts subject to judicial notice, so no party's credibility is at issue or in any way relevant. These allegations also have no conceivable relevance to the amount of any potential damages.

l. Paragraph 51

The Opposition states that Paragraph 51, which concerns the County's negotiations with another bargaining unit and subsequent implementation of salary changes for that bargaining unit, is relevant because "[t]he impact that the County's meandering position on Measure F has on collective bargaining units within the County is the precise subject matter of this dispute." This

1 statement is telling, as the Petitioners are clearly describing an allegation that the County's
2 actions constituted a failure to negotiate in good faith, which would fall within PERB's exclusive
3 initial jurisdiction. The actual subject matter of this dispute is whether the County's amendment
4 of County Code section 3.12.040 violated Elections Code section 9125, or whether the County
5 had the authority to subsequently impose a greater salary increase than the Measure F formula
6 would provide. This paragraph also has no conceivable relevance to the amount of any potential 7 damages, given that it relates solely to salary changes for another bargaining unit.

8 m. Paragraphs 54-57

9 The Opposition states that Paragraphs 54-57, which concern the County's attempts to 10 meet and confer over the proposed repeal of Section 3.12.040, "are relevant because they 11 demonstrate the County's position upon which Petitioners relied during collective bargaining and 12 negotiations" and that they are "relevant to credibility determinations." Once again, unless the 13 DSA is asserting an estoppel argument (which fails as a matter of law because the County cannot 14 be estopped from asserting a legal position with respect to constitutional or statutory law) or a 15 claim of bad faith bargaining (which is subject to the exclusive initial jurisdiction of PERB) the 16 County's stated position and any reliance the Petitioners may have had on such statements are 17 simply not relevant. The actual causes of action in the Petition raise only purely legal questions 18 that can be adjudicated on the basis of a small set of undisputed facts that are subject to judicial 19 notice, such that no party's credibility is actually at issue. These allegations also have no

21 III. CONCLUSION

22 For the foregoing reasons, this Court should grant in its entirety Respondent's Motion to 23 Strike Portions of the Petition, without leave to amend.

SHERIFFS' ASSOCIATION and NOAH FREDERITO,

Petitioners,

v.

Respondent.

Case No.: S-CV-0047770

Complaint Filed: December 21, 2021

DECLARATION OF LARS REED IN
PETITIONERS' OPPOSITION TO MOTION
TO STRIKE

Date: March 3, 2022
Time: 8:30 a.m.
Dept.: 42

(*Exempt from filing fees pursuant to Gov.
Code, § 6103.)

I, Lars T. Reed, declare as follows:

1. I am duly licensed to practice law in the State of California. I am an attorney with the law firm of Liebert Cassidy Whitmore ("LCW"), counsel of record in the above-captioned matter for Respondent COUNTY OF PLACER ("Respondent" or "County"), along with Michael D. Youril. This declaration is submitted in support of Respondent's Reply to Petitioner's Opposition to Motion to Strike the Verified Petition for Writ of Mandate and Complaint for Declaratory Relief ("Original Petition") filed by Petitioners Placer County Deputy Sheriff's Association and Noah Frederito (collectively, "Petitioners"), and supplements my prior declaration in support of the County's Demurrer, filed February 2, 2022. The following facts are

1 within my personal knowledge and, if called as a witness herein, I can and will testify
2 competently thereto.

3 2. Petitioners filed the Original Petition on December 21, 2021, and I am informed 4 that it was served on Respondent on January 4, 2022.

5 3. On January 12, 2022, Michael Youril and I participated in a teleconference with 6 David E. Mastagni and Taylor Davies-Mahaffey of the law firm Mastagni Holstedt, counsel for 7 Petitioners, to meet and confer regarding Respondent's intent to file a demurrer and motion to 8 strike in response to the Original Petition, pursuant to the requirements of Code of Civil 9 Procedure section 430.41(a), and Placer County Local Rule 20.2.1. This phone call lasted nearly 10 one hour.

11 4. During the call, in addition to a discussion regarding the grounds for the County's 12 demurrer, counsel discussed the County's proposed motion to strike. Mr. Youril and I explained
13 the County's position that a substantial portion of the allegations in the Petition are entirely 14 irrelevant to determining the legal questions underlying the specific causes of action asserted in 15 the Petition.

16 5. Mr. Mastagni indicated that he believes everything alleged in the Petition is 17 relevant, and asserted several proposed theories of relevance. These included that the disputed 18 allegations were relevant to claims for attorneys' fees and damages, that the disputed allegations 19 were relevant to showing a pattern of bad-faith conduct, that the disputed allegations were 20 relevant to showing that the parties had operated within the restrictions of Measure F for decades,
21 and that the disputed allegations were relevant to showing that the County's prior representations
22 about the legal effect and status of Measure F were inconsistent.

23 6. Although counsel did not discuss each disputed paragraph individually, we 24 nonetheless discussed each of the proposed theories of relevance. Mr. Youril and I explained that 25 none of the proposed theories of relevance were actually pertinent to the causes of action asserted 26 in the Petition.

27 7. On January 21, 2022, Petitioners filed an Amended Petition for Writ of Mandate
28 and Complaint for Declaratory Relief ("Amended Petition"), which our office received by e-mail

1 service the same day. The Amended Petition omitted several of the disputed paragraphs, but the 2 vast majority remained unchanged.

3 8. On January 28, 2022, Mr. Youril and I participated in a second teleconference with 4 Mr. Mastagni and Ms. Davies-Mahaffey to meet and confer over the County's proposed demurrer
5 and motion to strike portions of the Amended Petition.

6 9. During the call, Mr. Youril and I explained that although the Amended Petition
7 omitted some of the allegations the County objected to in the Original Petition, the majority of the 8 allegations the County sought to strike still remained. We explained that the County still 9 maintained that the challenged sections were legally irrelevant with no probative value to the 10 legal issues raised by the Petition, and so the County still intended to file a motion to strike.
11 Mr. Mastagni explained that Petitioners maintain that the Petition states a valid cause of action, 12 and that the challenged sections are relevant.

13 10. Because the remaining challenged allegations were essentially unchanged, neither 14 party's counsel had anything new to add to the discussion, and so the second phone call was 15 significantly shorter than the first.

16 11. Through the course of meeting and conferring, both parties' counsel engaged in a 17 serious effort to discuss the County's objections, comparing viewpoints, and deliberating, but the 18 parties were not able to reach an agreement resolving Respondent's objections to the Amended 19 Petition. Mr. Mastagni indicated that he had no intention to further amend the Petition in 20 response to Respondent's objections.

21 I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the United States and the State of 22 California that the foregoing is true and correct.

Defendants' Motion to Expunge Lis Pendens

Preliminary Matter

As an initial matter, the court shall exercise its discretion to consider any memorandum that exceeds the normal page limitations. Nonetheless, the parties are advised that this practice will not be tolerated in the future and the parties will be required to seek leave prior to the filing of any memorandum of excessive length.

Ruling on Objection

The court overrules defendants' objection no. 1.

Ruling on Motion

The motion is granted and defendants are awarded $18,060.00 in attorneys' fees.

In the current request, defendants seek to expunge the lis pendens notice filed by plaintiffs on April 6, 2021 along with the related recorded document. The expungement of a lis pendens involves a two prong analysis. The first prong involves a review of the complaint to determine whether a real property claim is involved. (Code of Civil Procedure section 405.32; Urez Corporation v. Superior Court (1987) 190 Cal.App.3d 1141, 1149.) The second prong involves an examination of the probable validity of the real property claim. (Code of Civil Procedure section 405.32; Howard S. Wright Construction Co. v. Superior Court (2003) 106 Cal.App.4th 314, 319.) It is the party opposing expungement who must prove both prongs with the probable validity prong established through a preponderance of the evidence. (Ibid.)

Here, a review of the second amended complaint shows plaintiffs allege breach of fiduciary duty and fraudulent transfer claims against the defendants. The relief here primarily seeks creation of a constructive trust to prevent further transfer or conveyance of the property along with disgorgement of any profits. The predominant claim asserted by plaintiffs is a real property claim, which satisfies the first prong of the analysis.

Next, the real property claim must be reviewed to determine the probable validity of the claim. All three of plaintiffs' causes of action substantially rely upon the same set of factual allegations. Namely, that defendants misrepresented the stream environmental zone [SEZ] on Lot 79, claiming it could not be developed; defendants failed to disclose Michael Oliver's plan to develop Lot 79; defendants failed to disclose that Nora Kelemen would act on Mr. Oliver's behalf to purchase Lot 79; and this failure to disclose was done to prevent plaintiffs from placing an offer on Lot 79, which included the failure to submit their offer prior to the close of escrow on Lot 79.

Plaintiffs' submitted evidence, however, does not establish a probable validity they will prevail on their real property claim. The evidence tends to show there was a dispute over the ability to develop Lot 79 rather than an express statement that the lot could not be developed. (Hartshorne declaration ¶¶6, 11, 12, 15, 16; Ogilvy declaration ¶¶4-8; Vicknair declaration ¶9; Defendants' AOE, Exhibit E.) Moreover, the evidence shows defendants Oliver and Kelemen began inquiries into Lot 79 after plaintiffs had purchased the 5020 West Lake Boulevard property. (see generally Mark Herthel declaration; Exhibits to Welkom declaration; Defendants' AOE, Exhibits G-V, BB-NN.) The evidence also tends to show that while plaintiffs made some inquiries regarding Lot 79, they were either in passing or had no follow through by plaintiffs. (Defendants' AOE, Exhibits E, PP-QQ.) It was in May 23, 2020 and May 28, 2020 that plaintiffs actually made an offer to purchase Lot 79. (Defendants' AOE Exhibit RR, Mark Herthel declaration, Exhibit G.) This was after escrow had already closed and the grant deed had been issued to defendants. (Kelemen declaration ¶5, Defendants' AOE, Exhibit NN.) In light of this evidence, plaintiffs have not established by a preponderance of the evidence that they will prevail on their real property claim.

TENTATIVE RULINGS FOR MARCH 3, 2022 AT 8:30 A.M.

The notice of lis pendens filed on April 6, 2021 and the corresponding recorded document are expunged.

The prevailing party in any motion to expunge lis pendens is entitled to cover attorney's fees and costs. (Code of Civil Procedure section 405.38.) Defendants are the prevailing party as their motion is successful, entitling them to an attorney's fees and costs award. The court has carefully reviewed the declaration of John Fairbrook and determines the 45 hours in legal services provided for this motion are reasonable. The hourly rate, however, needs to be reduced to better reflect the rate charged within Placer County. The hourly rate is reduced to $400 per hour. Defendants are awarded $18,000 in attorney's fees and the $60 motion fee for a total award of $18,060.

Motion to Compel Discovery

The motion is continued to Thursday, March 24, 2022 at 8:30 a.m. in Department 42.

It is noted both motions to compel were initially dropped from calendar. However, further review of the court file revealed there were actually two separate discovery motions set for March 3, 2022 with plaintiff only dropping the motion filed on January 26, 2022. The second motion to compel discovery filed on January 31, 2022 was not dropped by the moving party.

10. S-CV-0047684 TRIMONT LAND CO v. NORTHSTAR VILLAGE ASSOC

Defendant Northstar Village Association's [NVA's] Demurrer to the Complaint

The demurrer is overruled. In the current challenge, defendant NVA asserts plaintiff Trimont Land Company [Trimont] lacks standing to bring this action since Trimont is not an owner of property within the association. A demurrer is reviewed under well-established principles. The challenge here tests the legal sufficiency of the pleading, not the truth of the plaintiff's allegations or accuracy of the described conduct. (Bader v. Anderson (2009) 179 Cal.App.4th 775, 787.) In this vein, the allegations in the pleading are deemed to be true no matter how improbable the allegations may seem. (Del E. Webb Corp. v. Structural Materials Co. (1981) 123 Cal.App.3d 593, 604.)

A review of the complaint shows that the allegations within it are sufficient to plead standing at this initial stage of the litigation. Specifically, Trimont alleges in paragraph 4 that it is a commercial units owner within the owners' association along with being the mountain operator. (Complaint ¶4.) The complaint must be liberally construed with all inferences drawn in favor of plaintiff. (Code of Civil Procedure section 452; Quelimane Co. v. Stewart Title Guaranty Co. (1998) 19 Cal.4th 26, 43, fn. 7; Perez v. Golden Empire Transit Dist. (2012) 209 Cal.App.4th 1228, 1238.) The court must accept these allegations to be true at this juncture. In light of this, the demurrer is overruled in its entirety.

Any answer or general denial shall be filed and served by March 18, 2022.

11. S-CV-0047732 NORTHSTAR VILLAGE ASSOC v. CLP NORTHSTAR

Defendants' Demurrer to the Complaint

Ruling on Requests for Judicial Notice

Defendants' request for judicial notice is granted under Evidence Code section 452.

Plaintiff's request for judicial notice is granted under Evidence Code section 452.

Ruling on Demurrer

The demurrer is sustained in part. A demurrer is reviewed under well-established principles. The challenge tests the legal sufficiency of the pleading, not the truth of the plaintiff's allegations or accuracy of the described conduct. (Bader v. Anderson (2009) 179 Cal.App.4th 775, 787.) In this vein, the allegations in the pleading are deemed to be true no matter how improbable the allegations may seem. (Del E. Webb Corp. v. Structural Materials Co. (1981) 123 Cal.App.3d 593, 604.) The demurrer is reviewed keeping this in mind.

A review of the allegations within the complaint, when read as a whole and with the judicially noticeable documents, show they are sufficient to plead the claims alleged in the first and second causes of action.

THE HONORABLE MICHAEL W. JONES
TENTATIVE RULINGS FOR MARCH 3, 2022 AT 8:30 A.M.

The allegations within the fifth, sixth, and seventh causes of action are also sufficiently pleaded as defendants' challenge here is more properly brought through the filing of a motion to strike rather than a demurrer.

The demurrer is sustained, with leave to amend, as to the third cause of action. The allegations within this nuisance claim focus upon the gondola allegedly being built in violation of the CUP, which tends to invoke permanent nuisance rather than a continuing nuisance. A permanent nuisance involves a permanent injury that comes into effect when an act of injury is done, completing the nuisance when it comes into existence. (Mangini v. Aerojet-General Corp. (1991) 230 Cal.App.3d 1125, 1143, superseded by statute on other grounds in Rufini v. CitiMortgage, Inc. (2014) 227 Cal.App.4th 299, 311.) This type of nuisance has a three year statute of limitations that begins after the permanent nuisance is erected. (Id. at pp. 1144-1145.) The allegations within the complaint alleging the CUP arose from the 2004 certified EIR. From this date, the statute of limitations expired in 2007. A review of the judicially noticeable documents suggest the gondola was fully installed in 2010, which only extends the statute of limitations to 2013. The allegations as currently pleaded in the third cause of action, even when read in conjunction with the judicially noticeable documents, appear to be barred by the statute of limitations.

The first amended complaint shall be filed and served by March 25, 2022.

A civil trial conference is set for May 16, 2022 at 2:00 p.m. in Department 40.

7. S-CV-0045232 DEVINE, MAUREEN v. SUN CITY LINCOLN HILLS

Defendant's Motion for Summary Judgment

The motion is denied. In the current challenge, defendant seeks summary judgment as to the entirety of the claims alleged in plaintiffs' complaint. A summary judgment motion is reviewed under well-established principles. The moving party bears the initial burden of establishing that one or elements of a cause of action cannot be established or there is a complete defense to the cause of action. (Id. at 437c(p)(2).) Only when this initial burden is met does the burden shift to the opposing party to establish a triable issue of material fact. (Ibid.) In reviewing a motion for summary judgment, the trial court must view the supporting evidence, and inferences reasonably drawn from such evidence, in the light most favorable to the opposing party. (Aguilar v. Atlantic Richfield Company (2001) 25 Cal.4th 826, 843.) The court reviews the motion keeping this in mind.

persons from dangerous conditions on the property. (see Alpert v. Villa Romano Homeowners Assn. (2000) 81 Cal.App.4th 1320, 1334–35.) Even where the hazard is obvious and no warning is necessary, the landowner or possessor still has a duty to remedy the hazard where knowledge alone is inadequate to prevent injury. (Kinsman v. Unocal Corporation (2005) 37 Cal.4th 659, 673.) This is true where weighing the practical necessity of encountering the danger against the apparent risk posed by the danger may have a person choose to encounter the danger. (Ibid.)

It is undisputed that two blue hoses laid across the Ferrari Pond Trail. (Plaintiffs' SSUMF Nos. 11, 12.) These hoses would cause a wet area around the walking trail. (Id. at No. 9.) The hoses also generally required a pedestrian to slow down and take a large step to traverse both hoses. (Id. at No. 12.) This evidence tends to show there was an open, dangerous condition on the trail. Contrary to defendant's arguments, the submitted evidence does not establish that a reasonable pedestrian would merely turn around to avoid the hoses. To the contrary, the submitted evidence tends to support that a pedestrian would reasonably choose to confront the danger on the trail. Defendant does not submit sufficient evidence to address what maintenance or other steps were taken in order to remedy the danger caused by the blue hoses obstructing normal travel over the trail. In light of this, defendant has not met its initial burden and the motion is denied.

Plaintiffs' Motion to Compel Further Responses to Request for Production of Documents and Sanctions

The motion is granted in part.

Defendant Oliver Luxury Real Estate shall provide further verified responses and responsive documents, without further objections, to request for production of documents nos. 1, 2, 6, 7, 8, 37, 38, 43, 49-53, 55, and 56 within 10 days of service of the signed order after hearing.

Defendant Michael Oliver shall provide further verified responses and responsive documents, without further objections, to request for production of documents nos. 49-53, 55, and 56 within 10 days of service of the signed order after hearing.

Defendant Darin Vicknair shall provide further verified responses and responsive documents, without further objections, to request for production of documents nos. 48-52, 54, and 55 within 10 days of service of the signed order after hearing.

The court declines to expressly order defendants to produce privilege logs or enter into protective orders. The parties should be able to engage in meet and confer efforts to resolve these matters.

The court declines to order sanctions. A review of the declarations show plaintiff could have been more diligent during the meet and confer process. The court is also concerned that discussion during the purported meet and confer appeared more like ultimatums rather than good faith attempts to resolve the matter. In light of this, the court finds substantial justification for defendants' actions and will not order sanctions at this time.

CERTIFIED FOR PUBLICATION

FIRST APPELLATE DISTRICT

ASSOCIATION,

Plaintiff and Appellant,

v.

CITY OF PACIFICA,

Defendant and Respondent.

A161575

(San Mateo County
Super. Ct. No. 19CIV04212)

In 1988, the voters in the City of Pacifica (City) approved Measure F, which prescribes procedures to be followed in the event of an impasse in labor disputes with the City’s firefighters. Under this measure, absent other agreement, the top step salaries of fire captains in the city are to be set at an amount not less than the average for top step salaries of fire captains in five neighboring cities. After an impasse in negotiations occurred in 2019, the Pacifica Firefighters Association (PFFA) sought a writ of mandate and declaratory relief requiring the City to follow Measure F. The trial court denied the petition, finding Measure F preempted by state law and an unlawful delegation of power. We affirm.

BACKGROUND

Measure F

Measure F, an ordinance entitled “Firefighter Dispute Resolution Process Impasse Resolution Procedures: Minimum Wages and Benefits For Firefighters,” was adopted by the City’s voters in 1988. The stated purpose of the ordinance is “to resolve an impasse in wage and benefit negotiations should they occur” between representatives of the City and of the recognized firefighter organization “and to thereafter adopt minimum salary and benefits for firefighters.”

Pursuant to Measure F, if representatives of the City and/or the firefighters declare an impasse in negotiations over “wages, hours, benefits, and working conditions,” the parties must, within five days, see the assistance of a mediator “selected by the division of Conciliation of the Department of Industrial Relations of the State of California.” If no agreement has been reached after 15 days of mediation, either party may request the state conciliation service to name a panel of seven factfinders, from which one neutral factfinder is selected by the parties through an “alternate striking process”; that neutral factfinder joins one named by the City and one named by the firefighters to form a three-member factfinding board.

The “Factfinding Board” (Board) must “undertake an investigation, conduct hearings and receive evidence from City and firefighter representatives on all outstanding issues in dispute” and then make a recommendation on each disputed issue. Section 2(d) of Measure F provides: “The recommendations shall not be binding. On the issue of salaries and benefits, the recommendations of the Board shall be in conformity with the prevailing wage criteria established in Section 3 of this ordinance.” After a 15-day period during which the parties must resume negotiations, the Board’s findings and recommendations on any issues remaining in dispute “shall be submitted to the City Council for its consideration and implementation.”

Section 2(e) of Measure F provides: “The City Council shall carefully consider all the recommendations of the Factfinding Board. It is the intention of this ordinance that the recommendations of the Factfinding Board should be adopted by the City Council unless said recommendations are not supported by the findings of the Board or the findings are not supported by the preponderance of evidence received by the Board. In the event the City Council does not adopt the recommendations of the Factfinding Board on any issue, the City Council shall then make its own written findings on such issues. Such findings must be supported by the preponderance of evidence received by the Factfinding Board. On the subject of wages and benefits, the City Council shall follow and apply the prevailing wage and benefit criteria set forth in Sections 3(a) and 3(b) of this ordinance.”

Pursuant to section 3(a) of Measure F, “Unless otherwise agreed by City and firefighter representatives following the adoption of this ordinance, the top step salaries of Fire Captains in the City of Pacifica shall be fixed retroactively to July 1 of each fiscal year at an amount which is not less than the average for top step salaries for Fire Captains in the Cities of South San Francisco, Daly City, San Mateo, San Bruno and Redwood City. Salaries for top step Firefighter-Engineers shall be adjusted to a rate of 15.3% below the salary for top step Fire Captains. The percentage rated step increases below the top step Fire Captain and the top step Firefighter-Engineer shall be increased proportionately to the increases in the top steps for said classifications.”

Section 3(b) of Measure F states that employer costs for medical insurance for fire captains, firefighter-engineers and their dependents, and employer costs for vacations, holidays, educational incentives, sick leave, non-safety related uniform costs and retirement benefits, “shall be totaled and divided by the number of actual employees in the represented unit. Said costs shall then be compared to and maintained at not less than the employer costs and employer incurred costs of such benefits for Firefighters, Fire Engineers and Fire Captains actually employed in the cities identified in Section 3(a) of this ordinance. It is the intention of this ordinance that, unless otherwise agreed by City and firefighter representatives, that the City Council should follow the recommendations of the Factfinding Board in allocating the costs prescribed by this subsection unless said findings are not supported by a preponderance of the evidence received by the Board.”

Meyers-Milias-Brown Act

“In general, labor relations between local government employers and employees are regulated by the Meyers-Milias-Brown Act (MMBA), Government Code section 3500 et seq.” (Service Employees Internat. Union v. Superior Court (2001) 89 Cal.App.4th 1390, 1394.) “[T]he MMBA has two purposes: (1) to promote full communication between public employers and employees; (2) to improve personnel management and employer-employee relations within the various public agencies. Those purposes are to be achieved by establishing methods for resolving disputes over employment conditions and for recognizing the right of public employees to organize and be represented by employee organizations. Section 3500 states, however: ‘Nothing contained herein shall be deemed to supersede the provisions of existing state law and the charters, ordinances, and rules of local public agencies which establish and regulate a merit or civil service system or which provide for other methods of administering employer-employee relations. . . .’” (Los Angeles County Civil Service Com. v. Superior Court (1978) 23 Cal.3d 55, 62; Gov. Code, § 3500.)<sup>1</sup>

The MMBA requires a public employer to meet and confer in good faith with the recognized employee organization on wages, hours, and other terms and conditions of employment (§ 3505), and provides procedures to be followed if the parties fail to reach agreement. The parties may “together” agree upon the appointment of a mediator mutually agreeable to both. (§ 3505.2.) If there is no mediation, or if mediation is not successful, the employee organization may request submission of the parties’ differences to a “factfinding panel” comprised of three members, one selected by each of the parties and a third selected by the Public Employment Relations Board. (§ 3505.4, subd. (a).) The factfinding panel must meet with the parties and “may make inquiries and investigations, hold hearings, and take any other steps it deems appropriate.” (§ 3505.4, subd. (c).)

The panel is required to “consider, weigh, and be guided by” eight enumerated criteria: (1) “State and federal laws that are applicable to the employer”; (2) “Local rules, regulations, or ordinances”; (3) “Stipulations of the parties”; (4) “The interests and welfare of the public and the financial ability of the public agency”; (5) “Comparison of the wages, hours, and conditions of employment of the employees involved in the factfinding proceeding with the wages, hours, and conditions of employment of other employees performing similar services in comparable public agencies” (6) “The consumer price index for goods and services, commonly known as the cost of living”; (7) “The overall compensation presently received by the employees, including direct wage compensation, vacations, holidays, and other excused time, insurance and pensions, medical and hospitalization benefits, the continuity and stability of employment, and all other benefits received”; and (8) “Any other facts . . . which are normally or traditionally taken into consideration in making the findings and recommendations.” (§ 3505.4, subd. (d).)

The panel must “make findings of fact and recommend terms of settlement,” which must be submitted in writing to the parties and, subsequent to their receipt, made available to the public.” (§ 3505.5, subd. (a).) The panel’s findings and recommendations “shall be advisory only.” (Ibid.) As relevant here, “[a]fter any applicable mediation and factfinding procedures have been exhausted,” the public employer “may, after holding a public hearing regarding the impasse, implement its last, best, and final offer.” (§ 3505.7.)

This Case

According to the parties’ stipulated facts, the City (as of January 2020) employed six fire captains and 12 firefighters, including three vacant firefighter positions expected to be filled beginning January 27, 2020. In October 2018, the parties began negotiations for a new contract to replace the “Memorandum of Understanding” that was to expire at the end of that year. The City initially offered a two percent salary increase per year for three years, for all PFFA bargaining unit members. On February 15, 2019, the City increased its offer to a four percent salary increase in the first year (adding a two percent “‘market equity adjustment’” to the originally offered two percent salary increase in the first year), followed by two percent increases in the second and third years. On March 6, 2019, PFFA declared an impasse and its intent to invoke Measure F procedures if an agreement could not be reached in mediation. The City “stated that it would follow the Measure F procedures only to the point where they diverged from the requirements of the [MMBA].” Mediation was unsuccessful and, on April 24, 2019, PFFA stated “it would like to proceed to factfinding pursuant to Measure F and, absent a change in the City’s position, PFFA would file a Petition for Writ of Mandate and Complaint for Injunctive and Declaratory Relief.”

The procedures and standards in Measure F have never previously been applied to set firefighters’ compensation in Pacifica. As of May 2019, “[w]ithout adjustments for health care benefits and other elements of total compensation, the top step salaries for Fire Captains and Firefighters in the City of Pacifica . . . were “approximately 18.15% and 21.8% less respectively than the average for top step salaries for Fire Captains and Firefighters in the cities of South San Francisco, Daly City, San Mateo, San Bruno, and Redwood City.” If firefighter salaries in Pacifica had been set pursuant to Measure F in fiscal year 2019, without adjustments for health care payments, the city council would have had to increase salaries for top step fire captains by approximately 18.15 percent and top step firefighters by 21.8 percent.

PFFA filed its amended verified first amended petition for writ of mandate (Code Civ. Proc., § 1085) and complaint for declaratory and injunctive relief (Code Civ. Proc., § 1060) on September 4, 2019, seeking “to enforce the plain language of Measure F as the parties’ legally binding and non-discretionary vehicle for factfinding and resolving the current impasse in wage and benefit negotiations.” The City answered and, after receiving briefs from the parties, the trial court issued a tentative ruling denying the petition. The court concluded Measure F is preempted by the MMBA and constitutes an unlawful delegation of power. As to the former, the court found two provisions of Measure F conflict with the MMBA. First, the mandate of section 3 of Measure F that, absent agreement otherwise, salaries must be fixed at an amount not less than the average in the other jurisdictions, conflicts with the MMBA's authorization for public agencies to unilaterally impose their last, best, and final offer if negotiations fail. Second, Measure F's requirement that the factfinding board's recommendation be in conformity with the prevailing wage criteria in section 3 of the ordinance conflicts with the MMBA's requirement that the factfinding board weigh specified factors, including the interests and welfare of the public and financial ability of the public agency when developing any recommendation. (§ 3505.4, subd. (d)(4).) The court found Measure F "constitutes an unlawful delegation of power by the electorate" because, since Pacifica is a general law city, the city council has exclusive authority to fix compensation for appointive officers and employees (§ 36506) and a local initiative usurping this authority is unenforceable. After a hearing on September 10, 2020, the court adopted its tentative ruling as the order of the court. Its order denying the petition was filed on October 9, 2020.

This appeal followed.

DISCUSSION

"A traditional mandamus is sought to enforce a nondiscretionary duty to act on the part of a court, an administrative agency, or officers of a corporate or administrative agency." (Unnamed Physician v. Board of Trustees (2001) 93 Cal.App.4th 607, 618.) "There are two requirements essential to issuance of a writ of mandate under Code of Civil Procedure section 1085: (1) the respondent has a clear, present, and usually ministerial duty to act; and (2) the petitioner has a clear, present, and beneficial right to performance of that duty." (Ibid.)

“Where, as here, the pertinent facts are undisputed and the issue of the City’s mandatory duty under the ordinance presents an issue of statutory interpretation, ‘the question is one of law and we engage in a de novo review of the trial court’s determination.’ (Marshall v. Pasadena Unified School Dist. [(2004)] 119 Cal.App.4th 1241, 1253; see also Shamsian v. Department of Conservation [(2006)] 136 Cal.App.4th 621, 631.) ‘ ‘ ‘As the matter is a question of law, we are not bound by evidence on the question presented below or by the lower court’s interpretation. [Citations.]’ [Citation.]” [Citations.]’ (Cummings v. Stanley [(2009)] 177 Cal.App.4th 493, 508.)” (Sacks v. City of Oakland (2010) 190 Cal.App.4th 1070, 1082.)

I.

PFFA contends the present case is controlled by Kugler v. Yocum (1968) 69 Cal.2d 371 (Kugler), which held that a proposed ordinance requiring salaries of firefighters in the City of Alhambra to be set at no less than the average of the salaries received by firefighters in the neighboring City of Los Angeles and County of Los Angeles did not unlawfully delegate the Alhambra City Council’s legislative power to the parties who establish salaries for firefighters in the neighboring jurisdictions. (Id. at pp. 373–374.)

Kugler began its discussion with the observation that “the subject matter of the proposed ordinance, that is the salaries of city firemen, falls within the electorate’s initiative power. The city charter provides that the ‘Council . . . shall have the power to . . . establish . . . the amount of [the fire division’s] . . . salaries’ (§ 81) and that the ‘electors . . . shall have the right to . . . adopt . . . any ordinance which the council might enact’ (§ 176). Since in dealing with wage rates, the city council acts in its ‘legislative’ rather than its ‘administrative’ capacity [citations], wage rates are a proper subject for adoption as an ordinance by a city council and, accordingly, pursuant to section 176, for enactment by an initiative.” (Kugler, supra, 69 Cal.2d at p. 374.)

Kugler then explained that “the purpose of the doctrine that legislative power cannot be delegated is to assure that ‘truly fundamental issues [will] be resolved by the Legislature’ and that a ‘grant of authority [is] . . . accompanied by safeguards adequate to prevent its abuse.’” (Kugler, supra, 69 Cal.2d at p. 376.) While a legislative body must itself perform these functions, it “‘may, after declaring a policy and fixing a primary standard, confer upon executive or administrative officers the “power to fill up the details” by prescribing administrative rules and regulations to promote the purposes of the legislation and to carry it into effect . . . .’” (Ibid.)

Applying these principles, Kugler concluded: “[T]he adoption of the proposed ordinance, either through promulgation by the Alhambra City Council or by initiative, will constitute the legislative body’s resolution of the ‘fundamental issue.’ Once the legislative body has determined the issue of policy, i.e., that the Alhambra wages for firemen should be on a parity with Los Angeles, that body has resolved the ‘fundamental issue’; the subsequent filling in of the facts in application and execution of the policy does not constitute legislative delegation. Thus the decision on the legislative policy has not been delegated; the implementation of the policy by reference to Los Angeles salaries is not the delegation of it.” (Kugler, supra, 69 Cal.2d at p. 377.)

PFFA views the situation in the present case as directly analogous, urging that under Measure F, after firefighter salaries are determined by the Board, the City “retains full discretionary power in determining whether the data and the Board findings are sound and how, exactly, the City will execute its own previously determined policy of achieving pay parity for the City’s firefighters.” There are at least two problems with this view.

First, PFFA’s emphasis on the discretion Measure F leaves to the city council ignores the fact that the ordinance dictates the minimum level at which firefighters’ compensation ultimately must be fixed. Measure F permits the city council to reject the factfinding board’s recommendations if it finds they are not supported by the evidence, and to make its own findings based on the evidence before the board. But Measure F leaves the city council no discretion as to the standard that must be followed in fixing firefighters’ compensation: Section 3 of Measure F requires compensation no less than that of firefighters in the comparison jurisdictions.

Second, PFFA attempts to elide any distinction between the electorate and the city council by referring to the City’s “own previously determined policy” of setting firefighters’ compensation at no less than that of firefighters in the comparison cities. Treating the voters’ policy decision as in effect a policy decision by the city council, PFFA views Kugler as controlling because “the City”—whether voters or city council—established the fundamental standards to be applied in determining compensation. But in assuming the validity of the voter-adopted measure, PFFA’s argument glosses over the fact that Kugler involved a charter city whose charter expressly gave the voters the right to adopt any legislation the city council could enact, while Pacifica is a general law city. Contrary to PFFA’s argument, this distinction is significant.

“Charter cities are specifically authorized by our state Constitution to govern themselves, free of state legislative intrusion, as to those matters deemed municipal affairs.” (State Building & Construction Trades Council of California v. City of Vista (2012) 54 Cal.4th 547, 555.) “ “[S]alaries of local employees of a charter city constitute municipal affairs and are not subject to general laws.” ’ ” (Id. at p. 564; Marquez v. City of Long Beach (2019) 32 Cal.App.5th 552, 567.)

By contrast, “[t]he powers of a general law city include ‘ “only those powers expressly conferred upon it by the Legislature, together with such powers as are ‘necessarily incident to those expressly granted or essential to the declared object and purposes of the municipal corporation.’ The powers of such a city are strictly construed, so that ‘any fair, reasonable doubt concerning the exercise of a power is resolved against the corporation.’ [Citation.]” [Citations.]’ (Martin v. Superior Court (1991) 234 Cal.App.3d 1765, 1768.)” (G.L. Mezzetta, Inc. v. City of American Canyon (2000) 78 Cal.App.4th 1087, 1092.)

“ ‘[T]he local electorate’s right to initiative and referendum is guaranteed by the California Constitution, article II, section 11, and is generally co-extensive with the legislative power of the local governing body. [Citation.] . . . “[W]e will presume, absent a clear showing of the Legislature’s intent to the contrary, that legislative decisions of a city council or board of supervisors . . . are subject to initiative and referendum.” ’ (DeVita v. County of Napa (1995) 9 Cal.4th 763, 775, fn. omitted (hereafter DeVita)).” “The presumption in favor of the right of initiative is rebuttable upon a clear showing that the Legislature intended ‘to delegate the exercise of . . . authority exclusively to the governing body, thereby precluding initiative and referendum. [Citation.]’ (DeVita, . . . at p. 776.)” (Totten v. Board of Supervisors (2006) 139 Cal.App.4th 826, 833–834.)

“In ascertaining whether the Legislature intended to delegate authority exclusively to the local governing body, the ‘paramount factors’ are ‘(1) statutory language, with reference to “legislative body” or “governing body” deserving of a weak inference that the Legislature intended to restrict the initiative and referendum power, and reference to “city council” and/or “board of supervisors” deserving of a stronger one [citation]; (2) the question whether the subject at issue was a matter of “statewide concern” or a “municipal affair,” with the former indicating a greater probability of intent to bar initiative and referendum [citation].’ (DeVita, supra, 9 Cal.4th at p. 776.)” (Totten, supra, 139 Cal.App.4th at p. 834.) “Any other indications of legislative intent” are also to be considered. (DeVita, at p. 776.) These interpretive factors are not meant to be “a set of fixed rules for mechanically construing legislative intent,” and “ “[i]f doubts can [be] reasonably resolved in favor of the use of [the] reserve initiative power, courts will preserve it.’ ” ” [Citations.]” (Id. at p. 777.)

As a general law city, Pacifica is subject to section 36506, which provides, “By resolution or ordinance, the city council shall fix the compensation of all appointive officers and employees.” (§ 36506, italics added.) Although not conclusive, the statute’s use of the specific term “city council” (rather than a more generic reference such as “legislative body” or “governing body”) supports a “strong inference” that the Legislature meant to exclude the electorate from the authority conferred by section 36506. (Committee of Seven Thousand v. Superior Court (1988) 45 Cal.3d 491, 501–505; Totten, supra, 139 Cal.App.4th at p. 835.)

The City maintains that the California Supreme Court, in Bagley v. City of Manhattan Beach (1976) 18 Cal.3d 22 (Bagley), has “already held” section 36506 “bars the voters of a general law city from delegating the city council’s exclusive authority to fix employee compensation.” Bagley held invalid an initiative that would have required unresolved disputes between the city and the recognized firefighters’ employee organization to be submitted to binding arbitration. The court explained that “[w]hen the Legislature has made clear its intent that one public body or official is to exercise a specified discretionary power, the power is in the nature of a public trust and may not be exercised by others in the absence of statutory authorization. [Citations]. [¶] Although standards might be established governing the fixing of compensation and the city council might delegate functions relating to the application of those standards, the ultimate act of applying the standards and of fixing compensation is legislative in character, invoking the discretion of the council.” (Bagley, at pp. 24–25.) The court further noted that provisions of the MMBA, which indicated “ultimate determinations” regarding resolution of disputes between public employers and public employee organizations are to be made by the governing body itself,” “confirm[ed]” that “the plain language” of section 36506 should be applied “literally.” (Bagley, at p. 25.)

PFFA attempts to distinguish Bagley on the basis that it involved delegation of the city council’s authority over employee compensation to an arbitrator, whose binding decision would fix the salaries at issue, whereas Measure F reflects a legislative policy adopted by the City’s electorate, with only implementation left to others, as in Kugler. This distinction, as we have said, ignores the fact that Kugler involved an exercise of initiative power that was expressly granted by the city’s charter while Pacifica is a general law city subject to section 36506. Indeed, Bagley specifically noted this point in distinguishing Kugler, stating Kugler “involved the sufficiency of standards necessary to a valid delegation of legislative power in the absence of statutes demonstrating an intent that the power be exercised by a specific legislative body. Here legislative intent limiting delegability is clear.” (Bagley, supra, 18 Cal.3d at p. 26, italics added.) PFFA’s focus on the fact that the impasse resolution measure at issue in Bagley was binding arbitration begs the essential question, which is whether section 36506 delegated authority to set municipal employees' compensation exclusively to the city council so as to preclude legislation on the matter by initiative.

The strong inference of exclusive delegation arising from section 36506's specific reference to the "city council" is all the stronger when section 36506 is compared to other statutes in the same division of title 4 of the Government Code ("Government of Cities"). Section 36516 authorizes the city council to enact an ordinance providing that each city council member shall receive a salary based on the city's population, in amounts specified by the statute (§ 36516, subd. (a)(1)), but further provides that "the question of whether city council members shall receive a salary for services, and the amount of that salary, may be submitted to the electors" and determined by the electors' majority vote, including being "increased beyond" or "decreased below" the statutory amount. (§ 36516, subd. (b).) Section 36516.1 provides that an elective mayor<sup>2</sup> "may be provided with compensation in addition to that which he or she receives as a council member," which "additional compensation may be provided by an ordinance adopted by the city council or by a majority vote of the electors voting on the proposition at a municipal election." The fact that other statutes regarding salaries paid by general law cities make explicit provision for issues to be submitted to the voters, while section 36506 does not, reinforces the inference that the Legislature intended only the city council, and not the voters, to determine the salaries of city employees.

<sup>2</sup> Pursuant to section 36801, the city council of a general law city elects one of its members to be mayor. The city council may, however, submit to the voters the question whether the electors shall thereafter elect a mayor, and after an elective mayor's office has been established, the city council may submit to the voters the question whether to eliminate such office and reestablish the statutory procedure. (§§ 34900, 34902.)

The inference of exclusive delegation to the city council is also supported by consideration of the effect on city operations if the voters could require a minimum level of compensation for specific city employees. In attempting to divine the Legislature’s intent, some courts have inferred exclusive delegation “in part on the grounds that the Legislature must have intended to prevent disruption of routine operations of government.” (DaVita, supra, 9 Cal.4th at p. 781.) Based on fiscal year 2019 figures, and without considering health care payments, Measure F would have required the City to increase salaries for top step fire captains by approximately 18.15 percent and for top step firefighters by 21.8 percent. These increases are far greater than the two percent and four percent salary increases in the City’s last offer before the impasse in negotiations with PFFA. This difference could significantly impact the City’s ability to meet other financial obligations and satisfy other priorities.

As has been explained with reference to a county’s responsibilities in establishing a budget, “[t]he exercise of the board’s legislative power in budgetary matters ‘entails a complex balancing of public needs in many and varied areas with the finite financial resources available for distribution among those demands. . . . [I]t is, and indeed must be, the responsibility of the legislative body to weigh those needs and set priorities for the utilization of the limited revenues available.’” (County of Butte v. Superior Court (1985) 176 Cal.App.3d 693, 699.) In so doing, the board must weigh ‘a number of other factors besides the level of the union members’ salaries.’ (California Teachers Assn. v. Ingwerson (1996) 46 Cal.App.4th 860, 876.)” (County of Sonoma v. Superior Court (2009) 173 Cal.App.4th 322, 343.) The process by which it is determined how the resources are to be allocated cannot be controlled by the courts or by one particular group such as a union which has an interest in how much of those resources are allocated to its members. (County of Butte, at p. 698.) And, as the court put it in County of Butte, “[t]he chaos that would result if each agency of government were allowed to dictate to the legislative body the amount of money that should be appropriated to that agency, or its staffing and salary levels, is readily apparent.” (Id. at p. 699.) The complex balancing necessary to a city’s financial decisionmaking “involves interdependent political, social and economic judgments which cannot be left to individual officers acting in isolation; rather, it is, and indeed must be, the responsibility of the legislative body to weigh those needs and set priorities for the utilization of the limited revenues available.” (Ibid.)

Measure F addresses the compensation of employees in a single city department; the voters sought to ensure that if negotiations failed, firefighters in Pacifica would receive compensation commensurate with that of firefighters in neighboring cities. Laudable as their purpose may have been, the voters were considering one part of a complicated puzzle in isolation. Voters do not have access to the detailed financial information necessary to see the puzzle as a whole and weigh competing demands on a finite city treasury. In specifically directing the “city council” to “fix the compensation of all appointive officers and employees” (§ 36506), the Legislature must have intended to avoid the disruption to city operations that could result if the electorate could require a general law city to pay its firefighters higher salaries than the city council deemed appropriate by requiring salaries no less than those in another jurisdiction.

We therefore agree with the trial court that Measure F is unenforceable as a usurpation of authority the Legislature granted exclusively to the city council.<sup>3</sup>

II.

As PFFA emphasizes, there is language in the MMBA indicating the legislation is not intended to preempt all local legislation: Section 3500 states: “Nothing contained herein shall be deemed to supersede the provisions of existing state law and the charters, ordinances, and rules of local public agencies that establish and regulate a merit or civil service system or which provide for other methods of administering employer-employee relations nor is it intended that this chapter be binding upon those public agencies that provide procedures for the administration of employer-employee relations in accordance with the provisions of this chapter. This chapter is intended, instead, to strengthen merit, civil service and other <sup>3</sup> PFFA suggests that if the City “had a problem” with Measure F when it was adopted in 1988, it should have challenged the ordinance then. Its purpose in making this point is not entirely clear, as it does not go so far as to argue the present challenge cannot be maintained. The authority PFFA cites is a footnote in Kugler it describes as explaining that if a city dislikes a voter-approved ordinance, the remedy lies in a frontal attack on the ordinance or a formal action to narrow the electorate’s initiative power. (Kugler, supra, 89 Cal.2d at p. 375, fn. 2.) In fact, the court’s remarks addressed challenges to rules established by the city’s charter, not to the proposed ordinance pertaining to initiatives and their repeal. Responding to an argument that the proposed ordinance was invalid because the city council would never be able to repeal an ordinance approved by the voters, the court stated that if the rule prohibiting the city council from undoing an initiative-enacted ordinance was deemed unwise, the remedy would be either to change that rule or to amend the charter to narrow the electorate’s initiative power. (Ibid.) In any event, the cited footnote says nothing about any limitation on when an initiative-enacted ordinance may be challenged as an unlawful delegation of legislative power.

methods of administering employer-employee relations through the establishment of uniform and orderly methods of communication between employees and the public agencies by which they are employed.”

The parties agree, however, that “ ‘[t]he MMBA deals with a matter of statewide concern, and its standards may not be undercut by contradictory rules or procedures that would frustrate its purposes. [Citations.] Local regulation is permitted only if “consistent with the purposes of the MMBA.” [Citation.]’ ” (County of Los Angeles v. Los Angeles County Employee Relations Com. (2013) 56 Cal.4th 905, 925, quoting International Federation of Prof. & Technical Engineers v. City and County of San Francisco (2000) 79 Cal.App.4th 1300, 1306; Voters for Responsible Retirement v. Board of Supervisors (1994) 8 Cal.4th 765, 781 [“It is indisputable that the procedures set forth in the MMBA are a matter of statewide concern, and are preemptive of contradictory local labor-management procedures”].)”<sup>4</sup>

PFFA contends “[t]here is nothing in Measure F that would undercut or frustrate the purposes of the MMBA.” The City, by contrast, maintains Measure F “irreconcilably conflicts with the MMBA in at least two ways.” The first is Measure F’s requirement that the city council set firefighters’ top

<sup>4</sup> “The MMBA was not intended to occupy the field and preempt local regulation. ‘Nothing contained herein shall be deemed to supersede the . . . rules of local public agencies which establish and regulate a merit or civil service system or which provide for other methods of administering employer-employee relations’ (§ 3500). Looking to the future, the MMBA authorizes public agencies to adopt ‘reasonable rules and regulations’ on specified subjects after meeting and conferring with employee organizations. (§ 3507.) One of those subjects is ‘additional procedures for the resolution of disputes involving wages, hours and other terms and conditions of employment’ (id., subd. (e)).” (International Federation of Prof. & Technical Engineers v. City and County of San Francisco, supra, 79 Cal.App.4th at p. 1305.)

step salaries at an amount “not less than the average” for top step salaries in the specified cities, and maintain benefits costs at “not less than” the employer costs of such benefits in the comparison cities. This, the City argues, eliminates the city council’s “statutory authority to unilaterally impose its last, best, and final offer” if negotiations are not successful. The second conflict the City cites is that Measure F does not require the factfinding board to weigh the factors required to be considered and weighed by the factfinding panel under the MMBA, including the interests and welfare of the public and the financial ability of the public agency, instead requiring only that the board’s findings comport with the “not less than” standard.

With respect to the first point, in PFFA’s view, the last, best, and final offer provision of the MMBA is not the exclusive final step if an impasse cannot be reached, and Measure F simply provides an alternative final step that is consistent with the purposes of the MMBA—an “other method[] of administering employer-employee relations” within the meaning of section 3500.<sup>5</sup>

PFFA’s argument, of course, requires adopting the view we have rejected—that Measure F is the result of a valid exercise of the initiative power and, therefore, tantamount to a decision by the city council that the final outcome after an impasse in negotiations will be implementation of the not-less-than standard.

<sup>5</sup> As PFFA puts it, while public entities “are invariably loathe to give up or compromise on their presumably sacrosanct right to impose a ‘last, best, and final’ offer when the going gets tough and impasse is reached,” “that labor relations practice is not a labor relations necessity.” PFFA argues that Measure F “reflects the electorate’s desire that its firefighters receive pay that matches nearby comparator cities” and is “simply an ‘other method’ of administering employer-employee relations and overcoming impasse,” an “impasse tool consistent with the MMBA’s goal of improving employer-employee relations in California.”

Had the city council itself enacted the provisions of Measure F, the question whether it conflicts with the MMBA would turn on whether last, best, and final offer provision in section 3055.7 precludes a public employer from adopting a different, binding final step in the impasse resolution process. While the MMBA does not require a public employer to impose its last, best, and final offer if impasse resolution procedures do not succeed, its authorization for the employer to do so serves to preserve the employer's discretion to determine the ultimate outcome (consistent with the employer's final position in negotiations). Measure F's requirement that compensation be set no lower than compensation in the comparison cities clearly conflicts with this retained control—unless it can be said that, as in Kugler, the enactment of Measure F constituted the necessary exercise of discretion. As previously discussed, Kugler viewed the ordinance requiring Alhambra's firefighters' compensation to be set at no less than that of Los Angeles firefighters as reflecting the city's exercise of discretion, through charter-authorized legislation by initiative, to adopt the comparison-based standard. That cannot be said here, where the standard was set for the City by an electorate that did not have authority to make the discretionary decision reserved for the city council.

Moreover, Kugler did not involve any question of conflict with the MMBA—which had not yet been enacted<sup>6</sup>—and its approval of the ordinance does not necessarily suggest Measure F presents no such conflict.

<sup>6</sup> The MMBA was enacted in 1968, building upon the initial recognition of public employee bargaining in the 1961 Brown Act.

When Measure F was adopted in 1988, the MMBA did not contain mandatory impasse procedures; the legislation “contemplate[d] resolution of impasse by procedures that are imposed by other laws or by mutual agreement, not by the MMBA.” (Santa Clara County Correctional Peace Officers’ Assn., Inc. v. County of Santa Clara (2014) 224 Cal.App.4th 1016, 1034; § 3505 [meet and confer process “should include adequate time for the resolution of impasses where specific procedures for such resolution are contained in local rule, regulation, or ordinance, or when such procedures are utilized by mutual consent”].) Prior to the addition of the factfinding and impasse procedures now found in sections 3505.4, 3505.5, and 3505.7 by Assembly Bill No. 646 in 2011, “if a public agency and a union reached an impasse in their negotiations, the Act permitted the parties to mutually agree to engage in mediation (§ 3505.2), but did not require the parties to engage in factfinding or any other impasse procedure. [Citations.] If there was no impasse procedure applicable by local law or by the parties’ agreement, the public agency could unilaterally impose its last, best, and final offer.” (San Diego Housing Com. v. Public Employment Relations Bd. (2016) 246 Cal.App.4th 1, 9; Santa Clara County Correctional Peace Officers’ Assn., Inc., at p. 1034.) “With Assembly Bill [No.] 646’s passage, if a public agency and a union reach an impasse in their negotiations, the union may now require the public agency to participate in one type of impasse procedure—submission of the parties’ differences to a factfinding panel for advisory findings and recommendations—before the public agency may unilaterally impose its last, best, and final offer.” (San Diego Housing Com., at p. 9.)

In light of this history, had Measure F been enacted by the city council, it might have been valid when adopted in 1988. But, if so, the situation has now changed: Measure F precludes the city council from exercising its right under section 3505.7 to impose its last, best, and final offer in the event of an impasse in negotiations.

The other conflict the City cites is between Measure F's requirement that the recommendations of the Board conform to the "prevailing wage criteria" established in section 3 of the ordinance and the MMBA's requirement that the factfinding panel consider and weigh a variety of enumerated factors. As PFFA does not address this issue in its briefs on appeal, we need not resolve it, although we note it again depends on PFFA's mistaken view that the voters could make this discretionary decision in place of the city council.

Respondent County of Placer's Demurrer to the Amended Writ Petition

Ruling on Request for Judicial Notice

Respondent's request for judicial notice filed on February 2, 2022 and request for judicial notice filed on March 29, 2022 are granted under Evidence Code section 452.

Ruling on Demurrer

In this current challenge, respondent demurs to all three causes of action. It argues the first cause of action fails since Measure F enacted in 1976 violates Article XI, Section 1(b) of the California Constitution by depriving the Placer County Board of Supervisors of its constitutional authority to set employee compensation. Respondent goes on to challenge the second and third causes of action as derivative of the first cause of action, failing to allege additional facts to support any separate legal theory.

A demurrer is reviewed under well-established principles. A party may demur where the pleading does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action, testing the sufficiency of the pleading and not the truth of the allegations or the accuracy of the described conduct. (Code of Civil Procedure section 430.10(e); Bader v. Anderson (2009) 179 Cal.App.4th 775, 787.) The allegations in the pleading are deemed to be true no matter how improbable the allegations may seem. (Del E. Webb Corp. v. Structural Materials Co. (1981) 123 Cal.App.3d 593, 604.) Further, the pleading must be liberally construed with all inferences drawn in favor of the petitioner. (Code of Civil Procedure section 452; Quelimane Co. v. Stewart Title Guaranty Co. (1998) 19 Cal.4th 26, 43, fn. 7; Perez v. Golden Empire Transit Dist. (2012) 209 Cal.App.4th 1228, 1238.)

Respondent's challenge to the first cause of action does not generally rely on purported insufficiencies in the factual allegations. Rather, respondent asserts the claim for violations under Elections Code section 9125 cannot stand since the allegations rely on Measure F, which was invalid and unconstitutional. The right of the people to bring initiatives and referendums are not granted to the people, they are powers reserved by the people. (Rossi v. Brown (1995) 9 Cal.4th 688, 695.) The courts are zealous custodians of this right, charged with the duty to jealously guard the right of the people, which is often described as one of the most precious rights of our democratic process. (Ibid.) In this vein, judicial policy is to apply liberal construction to this power of the people when challenged so that the right is not improperly annulled with doubts resolved in favor of reserving the power. (Ibid.) The local initiative power is seen to be even broader than the power reserved under the California Constitution. (Id. at p. 696.)

When considering the liberal construction applied to the initiative power of the people along with the liberal construction that is afforded to a pleading at this stage, the court determines the allegations within the first cause of action are sufficient to withstand the demurrer. To reiterate, the challenge is brought at the pleading stage in an attempt to prevent substantive review of the petitioners' claims. To prevail, respondents need to show an inability of petitioners to proceed on the legal theory espoused in first cause of action, which has not been demonstrated here. The cases cited by respondent are factually distinguishable and, more importantly, address challenges brought beyond the pleading stage.

Gates v. Blakemore (2019) 39 Cal.App.5th 32, addressed a pre-initiative writ challenge so that the merits of the controversy over the proposed initiatives could be resolved with the trial court holding a hearing on the matter. Citizens for Jobs and the Economy v. County of Orange (2002) 94 Cal.App.4th 1311, addressed a successful summary judgment motion where the trial court determined the initiative measure interfering with county board of supervisors' ability to plan and implement various projects was void and unenforceable. After a substantive review in Meldrim v. Board of Supervisors (1976) 57 Cal.App.3d 341, the trial judge issued a judgment that determined an initiative measure ordinance setting salaries for members of the board of supervisors was unconstitutional. Jahr v. Casebeer (1999) 70 Cal.App.4th 1250, had a substantive hearing on the merits where the trial court determined a proposed initiative establishing compensation for the county board of supervisors was unconstitutional. Even respondent's newly cited case, Pacifica Firefighters Association v. City of Pacifica (2022) 2022 WL 871260, involved a substantive review of the writ petition with the trial court determining the initiative requiring top step salaries for fire captains to be set at the average for neighboring cities was an unenforceable usurpation of authority granted to the city council. The court cannot determine at this juncture that the claim for violations of Elections Code section 9125 is unconstitutional on the face of the pleading even when the judicially noticeable documents are considered. As it stands, the allegations presented in the first cause of action raise a viable claim at the pleading stage. The demurrer is overruled as to the first cause of action.

The third cause of action alleges a claim for declaratory relief, seeking to declare the rights of the parties on an actual controversy between the parties regarding the repeal of Measure F. The allegations within this claim sufficiently plead a cause of action for declaratory relief. The relief seeks specific judicial determinations regarding the validity of the repeal of the prior version of Section 3.12.040, which is distinguishable from that sought in the first cause of action. The demurrer is also overruled as to the third cause of action.

The same is not true for the second cause of action, which alleges a violation of Placer County Code Section 3.12.040. The allegations within this claim are conclusory in nature, failing to allege facts in support of the cause of action. Furthermore, the cause of action is not viable against the current iteration of Section 3.12.040. The allegations refer to a version of Section 3.12.040 that is no longer in effect. The demurrer is sustained as to the second cause of action.

The final matter to address is whether petitioners should be afforded leave to amend. The court has carefully reviewed the allegations within the amended writ petition along with considering petitioners' opposition to the demurrer. It appears petitioners may be able to remedy the deficiencies in the second cause of action so as to formulate a valid legal claim. The demurrer is sustained with leave to amend since there appears to be an ability to remedy the deficiencies in the second cause of action.

The second amended writ petition shall be filed and served by April 29, 2022.

Respondent County of Placer's Motion to Strike the Amended Writ Petition

Ruling on Request for Judicial Notice

Respondent's request for judicial notice is granted under Evidence Code section 452.

DEPARTMENT 42

Ruling on Motion

Respondent seeks to strike paragraphs 10-63 of the amended writ petition, asserting none of the allegations are relevant to the causes of action alleged in the pleading. A motion to strike may be granted to strike irrelevant, false, or improper matters in a pleading; or to strike a pleading not drawn in conformity with the laws of the state or an order of the court. (Code of Civil Procedure section 436(a), (b).) The grounds for a motion to strike must appear on the face of the pleading or from judicially noticeable matters. (Code of Civil Procedure section 437(a).) Further, the parties are to meet and confer regarding any objections to language prior to the filing of a motion to strike. (Code of Civil Procedure section 435.5.)

Initially, the court does not accept respondent's characterization of meet and confer attempts. Respondent takes the position that it had nothing further to discuss after the filing of the amended writ petition since the parties had essentially said all they had to say prior to the filing of the motion to strike. Section 435.5 contemplates a more vociferous attempt to resolve matters. The statute calls for the parties to attempt resolution of objections raised in the motion to strike. Respondent tacitly admits it did not engage in this robust level of informal resolution. The court will expect the parties to adopt a more broadminded interpretation of the informal meet and confer process in the future rather than incorporating prior discussions as a fulfillment of their meet and confer obligations.

The court has carefully reviewed the challenged allegations and determines the allegations in paragraphs 22, 23, 46, 49, and 50 are irrelevant and improperly pleaded. The motion is granted as to these paragraphs. The court strikes paragraphs 22, 23, 46, 49, and 50 without leave to amend.

The remainder of the paragraphs are sufficiently relevant to the claims alleged in this action so as to stand as pleaded. The motion is denied as to the remainder of the challenged paragraphs.

4 THE COURT: Next matter I have is the Placer
5 County Deputy Sheriff's Association versus County of 6 Placer. And, for this matter I have some folks online.

7 Let's see. Ms. Collins, are you ready on this?

8 COURT REPORTER: Yes, sir. I'm ready.

9 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

10 And I have Michael, is it pronounced Youril, 11 online.

12 MR. YOURIL: Yes, Your Honor, but Lars Reed is 13 in person and will be arguing.

14 THE COURT: I'm sorry. Say that again.

15 MR. YOURIL: Yes, Your Honor, but my colleague,
16 Lars Reed, is in court and will argue in person.

17 THE COURT: Oh, okay. Yes. Thank you.

18 And, then I have folks who are here in court,
19 so we'll get their appearance too.

20 Yes, sir.

21 MR. REED: Lars Reed, for the County of Placer.
22 With me is Kate Sampson, the HR director, and Brett
23 Holt, from the County Counsel's office.

24 THE COURT: All right. Good morning.

25 MS. DAVIES-MAHAFFEY: Good morning, Your Honor.

1 Taylor Davies-Mahaffey, spelled D-A-V-I-E-S, hyphen,
2 M-A-H-A-F-F-E-Y, on behalf of Placer County Deputy 3 Sheriff's Association.

4 THE COURT: Good morning.

5 MR. MASTAGNI: Good morning, Your Honor. David 6 Mastagni, on behalf of Placer County Deputy Sheriff's 7 Association.

8 THE COURT: Good morning to each of you. Make 9 yourself comfortable, folks.

10 All right. Mr. Reed, I'm told that you're 11 going to present the argument -- oral argument on the 12 Court's tentative ruling. I have one for the demurrer
13 and one for the motion to strike. What's the plan here
14 this morning?

15 MR. REED: That's right, Your Honor. The 16 County is essentially asking the Court to reconsider its 17 tentative ruling, essentially because we believe it is 18 incomplete.

19 The petition in this case seeks to invalidate
20 the County's amendment of County Code Section 3.12.40,
21 asserting that the County's actions repealed the ballot
22 initiative without voter approval.

23 The County demurs that the ballot initiative,
24 called Measure F, was already legally void for three 25 separate reasons, which would mean that Section 3.12.40

1 of the County Code was a normal ordinance, subject to 2 regular amendment and repeal.

3 Three reasons we set forth for why Measure F
4 was legally void is that it was preempted by the 5 Meyers-Milias-Brown Act, that it's inconsistent with the 6 1980 County Charter, and therefore implicitly repealed
7 by the County Charter in 1980. And, that it was an 8 unlawful infringement on the Board of Supervisors'
9 constitutional authority to set compensation for county
10 employees.

11 The tentative ruling only even acknowledges one 12 of those three arguments. Essentially the tentative 13 ruling appears to have taken the three pitches that we 14 set out -- let -- said that it was based on one, and 15 then said three strikes. It never even addresses the 16 argument or acknowledges it, the argument that Measure F
17 was preempted by the Meyers-Milias-Brown Act or that it
18 was inconsistent with the County Charter.

19 Even where the tentative ruling does address 20 the argument, it only goes so far as to say that the 21 challenge -- the cases cited in the demurrer do not -- 22 that those cases address challenges brought beyond the 23 pleading stage.

24 But, that is not the legal standard for 25 determining whether a demurrer is appropriate. Under

1 the Code of Civil Procedure, a demurrer is appropriate
2 any time the face of the petition clearly discloses a 3 defense, or a defense is apparent for matters subject to 4 judicial notice.

5 All three of the grounds for demurrer fall
6 directly from the face of the petition, as well as 7 matters subject to judicial notice. The petition says
8 that Measure F imposes a non-discretionary duty for the 9 County to fix deputy sheriff wages by a specific 10 formula.

11 The Court has already taken judicial notice of 12 the complete text of the ballot initiative, as well as 13 the complete text of the 1980 County Charter. There is 14 no requirement under the law that there be an 15 evidentiary or other formal hearing on questions of 16 statutory interpretation or similar fewer questions of 17 law.

18 Now after briefing, the Court of Appeals issued
19 a decision in the "Pacifica Firefighters Association"
20 case. In that case the Court of Appeal invalidated a 21 very similar ballot initiative from 1988 that would fix
22 municipal firefighter salaries, unless otherwise agreed.
23 Notably, that is less restrictive than Measure F in 24 Placer County.

25 The County believes that the firefighters --

1 the "Pacifica Firefighters" case is entirely dispositive
2 of the MMBA question and should be binding on the 3 Superior Court.

4 It also raises an additional legal issue that 5 was not already briefed of whether Measure F conflicts
6 with, and is preempted by state general law. In the 7 "Pacifica Firefighters" case, which was a city, that 8 would have been Government Code Section 36506. The 9 equivalent statute for county, Section 25300, is 10 extremely similar.

11 The County would also note that the tentative 12 is inconsistent. The ruling on the second cause of 13 action concludes that Section 3.12.40 was amended. That 14 conclusion should have been dispositive of the other 15 causes of action as well.

16 So, the County requests that the Court withdraw 17 its tentative ruling and reconsider the decision on the 18 merits.

19 As for the motion to strike, the tentative 20 ruling mischaracterizes the County's position with 21 respect to the meet-and-confer efforts. The County and 22 Petitioner's counsel discussed the proposed motion to 23 strike for well over an hour in response to the original 24 petition, and although we acknowledge there was an 25 amended petition, every one of the challenged paragraphs

1 is the same in both petitions, so we believe that 2 meet-and-confer efforts were more than sufficient.

3 And, in any event, Code of Civil Protection --
4 Code of Civil Procedure, Section 435.5, specifically
5 says there's -- an incon -- insufficient meet-and-confer
6 is not valid grounds to deny a motion to strike.

7 More to the point, the substantive merits of 8 this case depend entirely on a very small set of 9 undisputed facts. Measure F was enacted, and the Court
10 has taken judicial notice of its text.

11 The same salary formula was later codified at 12 County Code Section 3.12.40. The County Charter was 13 enacted in 1980. The Court has already taken judicial 14 notice of its text. The County amended Section 3.12.40
15 in September of last year, and the Board of Supervisors
16 voted to impose a wage increase higher than the formula
17 would allow.

18 All of these are undisputed facts, and those 19 facts are all that are needed to determine whether the 20 County did, in fact, have the legal authority to amend 21 Section 3.12.40, and whether the County had the legal 22 authority to impose wage increases.

23 All other allegations in the petition are 24 entirely irrelevant, and will serve only to confuse the 25 factual record, and would vastly expand the scope of 1 discovery.

2 For example, the County is baffled as to how 3 allegations regarding failed ballot measures in 2002 and 4 2006 could in any way be relevant to whether the County
5 had the legal authority to amend Section 3.12.40, or how 6 is a 2003 newspaper op-ad relevant to whether the County
7 has that legal authority?

8 How is the fact-finder, Catherine Harris,' 9 non-binding impasse recommendations relevant to whether 10 the County had legal authority to amend Section 3.12.40?
11 Under the MMBA, those are explicitly non-binding. They 12 are due no deference from this court.

13 On those grounds, the County would ask that the 14 Court reconsider both the tentative ruling on the 15 demurrer and the tentative ruling on the motion to 16 strike.

17 Thank you.

18 THE COURT: Who's going to argue over there?

19 MS. DAVIES-MAHAFFEY: I will, Your Honor.

20 THE COURT: You may.

21 MS. DAVIES-MAHAFFEY: We disagree with the 22 County's characterization of the tentative ruling. We 23 think the tentative ruling on the demurrer properly
24 addressed all of the County's arguments and correctly
25 found that there are factual and legal distinctions

1 between all of the cases cited by the County and the 2 case here, and that those issues are properly decided 3 later, after more facts can be developed on the merits,
4 rather than just at the pleading stage.

5 You know, specifically dealing with the 6 "Pacifica" case. That, as Counsel points out, dealt 7 with a general law city. Here we are talking about a
8 charter county.

9 There are a number of distinctions between the 10 Government Code sections that deal with that. And, the 11 language in "Pacifica" specifically, you know, relies on 12 the fact that there the Government Code section stated
13 the words "City Council" rather than "governing body," 14 and makes an issue of that. And so, I think those 15 little nuances are exactly why we need to be able to 16 fully litigate the merits of this case.

17 As the Court noted, that is particularly 18 important when we're dealing with the People's 19 initiative power, which the courts zealously guard, as 20 the cases say.

21 On the preemption issue, similarly I think 22 there are factual distinctions between "Pacifica" and 23 our case here. The statute in "Pacifica," the ordinance
24 in "Pacifica" dealt with -- it was a very specific,
25 unique ordinance that was tied up in the fact-finding

1 process and determined what happened after fact-finding
2 occurred. That's not what we're dealing with here.

3 On the motion to strike, I -- I don't feel that 4 we need to address the issues over the meet-and-confer.
5 That was fully briefed and our position was laid out,
6 and the Court's ruling did not rely on that.

7 And, as far as the other issues that Counsel
8 raises, the pleading standard is not that we must only 9 plead the bare minimum. We can plead anything that is 10 relevant to our case. And, I think, you know, that the 11 argument that we're having over the demurrer
12 demonstrates that a lot of these facts about the 2002
13 and 2006 votes, and the County's representations and the 14 County's interpretation and understanding of Measure F
15 leading up to today are relevant.

16 MR. REED: May I respond?

17 THE COURT: Let me make sure she's finished.

18 MS. DAVIES-MAHAFFEY: I'm finished.

19 THE COURT: Thank you.

20 Yes, sir.

21 MR. REED: So, Petitioner's raised the issue
22 regarding the "Pacifica Firefighters" case that that was 23 a general law city. Placer County is indeed now a 24 charter county. In 1976, when Measure F was enacted,
25 Placer County was a general law county.

1           The general law applicable to counties, as I
2 mentioned, Section 36506 of the Government Code for 3 cities and Section 25300 for counties, those are 4 extremely similar statutes.

5           As to the point that the "Pacifica
6 Firefighters" case noted that the -- the Government Code
7 section for cities specifically talks about delegating
8 authority to the City Council, so does the Government
9 Code section relating to the counties. It explicitly 10 delegates authority over employee compensation to the 11 Board of Supervisors.

12           The constitution only says "governing body,"
13 that's because the constitution never uses the term 14 "Board of Supervisors," it only ever speaks of the 15 "governing body" of a county, but specifically defines 16 the "governing body" as a body of at least five members
17 that are elected, meaning the Board of Supervisors.

18           And, even noting that that is a difference in 19 what the statute says, statutory interpretation is not a 20 question of fact. Statutory interpretation is a 21 question of law, and is appropriate at the demurrer
22 stage.

23           Similarly, the differences between the 24 ordinance in the City of Pacifica and the ordinance in 25 Placer County, those are questions of statutory

1 interpretation.

2 Yes, the ordinance in "Pacifica" only applies
3 to the limited instance where the parties went through 4 impasse and never reached an agreement. In Placer
5 County, Measure F is significantly more restricted.

6 According to Petitioners themselves, it is 7 binding at all times, whether or not the parties agree
8 otherwise, whether or not they go through fact-finding.
9 And indeed, in this case the parties did go through 10 fact-finding, did come to an impasse, and never reached 11 an agreement.

12 Even if the Placer County ordinance had said
13 the same as the City of Pacifica ordinance, it would 14 have still been invoked. But, ultimately all of these 15 are questions of law, not questions of fact, and they 16 are absolutely appropriate at the demurrer stage.

17 As to the MMBA, the MMBA never talked about 18 Placer County versus general law counties. It doesn't 19 make a distinction between cities and counties at all.
20 It talks about public agency employers.

21 The "City of Pacifica Firefighters" case held 22 that, that less restricted initiative was preempted by 23 the MMBA because it interfered with the employer's 24 ability to impose its last, best and final offer after 25 going through the impasse process.

1 Placer County did impose its last, best and 2 final offer after going through the impasse process, and 3 Petitioners brought their writ petition to invalidate
4 exactly that action.

5 So, to the extent that the "City of Pacifica
6 Firefighters" case is binding -- which it should be 7 because it is a published case of the Court of Appeals
8 -- it is entirely dispositive of the MMBA preemption
9 issue, and this court should reach the same conclusion
10 that the more restricted Placer County Measure F is 11 similarly preempted by the MMBA.

12 Now, we acknowledge that this case was decided 13 after the parties completed their briefing, so if it
14 would be helpful to the Court, we are absolutely willing 15 to submit detailed supplemental briefing on how the City
16 of Pacifica case affects this case. If the Court does 17 not wish us to do so, then we ask that the Court
18 withdraw its tentative ruling and sustain the demurrer.

19 As for the motion to strike, I think we have 20 said everything we need to say on that.

21 MS. DAVIES-MAHAFFEY: May I respond, Your 22 Honor?

23 THE COURT: I will let you, it's an important
24 issue, but then I'm just going to let Mr. Reed respond 25 again because he gets the last word on this. He called

1 in.

2 Go ahead.

3 MS. DAVIES-MAHAFFEY: Okay. I just want to 4 point out that Mr. Reed's interpretation of the 5 "Pacifica" case would essentially invalidate a whole
6 slew of Supreme Court case law, which has held that just 7 because something is within the scope of representation
8 under the MMBA that does not preempt -- that does not 9 preempt the People's initiative power. It would 10 invalidate cases like "Seal Beach" and "Boling."

11 I think that what "Pacifica" stands for is a 12 more narrow -- it's on a more narrow set of facts where 13 there was a statute that essentially required the city 14 to impose -- partially impose their last, best and 15 final. And they said that, that was -- that conflicted
16 with the MMBA.

17 To say that anything that does not allow the 18 County to impose whatever their last, best and final is, 19 is preempted by the MMBA would be -- I think that 20 misstates what the ruling in that case is. And, here
21 we're not dealing with that similar type of statute.

22 And, again, I'll just say that these are, you 23 know, very nuanced factual distinctions between the 24 ordinances that we're dealing with, and that we should 25 be able to develop the merits, and it should not be

1 submitted at the pleading stage.

2 The parties fulfilled their MMBA obligations
3 when they met and conferred prior to placing the 4 initiative on the ballot, and that's all that the 5 previous Supreme Court case law has required. And so,
6 I'll -- I'll submit on that.

7 THE COURT: Thank you. Mr. Reed?

8 MR. REED: There are two issues there. For 9 one, the "Seal Beach" and "Boling" cases deal with an 10 entirely separate issue. Those cases deal with when a 11 public employer can or cannot submit its own ballot
12 initiative that affects a matter within the scope of 13 representation.

14 They hold that, you know, a city or a county
15 cannot circumvent the union, put something on the ballot
16 that affects compensation or other terms of employment
17 without meeting and conferring.

18 That's not what we're dealing with here. What 19 we're dealing with here is the opposite, whether an 20 initiative brought by the public can preclude the 21 parties from negotiating, and preclude the party --
22 preclude the employer from imposing its last, best and 23 final offer, and whether it's therefore preempted by the 24 MMBA.

25 The County is not arguing for an expansion of

1 the "Pacifica Firefighters" case. We're asking that it
2 be applied as written.

3 The "Pacifica Firefighters" case specifically
4 addressed the issue of whether an initiative can
5 preclude the employer from imposing its last, best and 6 final offer. The Court concluded that it cannot. That 7 the public is simply not privy to all of the 8 information, budgetary information that the employer has 9 that justified a specific course of action with regard
10 to employee conduct.

11 The Court specifically held that Measure F in 12 that case -- they were named the same thing -- that that 13 Measure F precluded the City Council from exercising its 14 right under Government Code Section 3505.7 to impose its 15 last, best and final offer in the event of an impasse in 16 negotiations.

17 That is exactly what this case is about. The 18 County imposed its last, best and final offer. This 19 petition was brought arguing that Measure F precludes
20 them from doing so. They're essentially the same case, 21 and they should reach the same results.

22 Thank you.

23 THE COURT: All right. Thank you, folks. I'll 24 take the matter under submission and consider your 25 arguments here.

Petitioner, vs.
Respondent.

Case No.: SCV-47770
RULING ON RESPONDENT'S (1)
DEMURRER TO THE AMENDED WRIT
PETITION AND (2) MOTION TO STRIKE
THE AMENDED WRIT PETITION

The hearing on respondent's demurrer to the amended writ petition and motion to strike the amended writ petition came regularly before the court on April 7, 2022 at 8:30 a.m. in Department 42. The appearances of the parties for the hearing were as recited in the court's minutes. The court has carefully read and considered the briefing along with the oral arguments of the parties. The court issues the following ruling on the matters submitted for decision:

Respondent County of Placer's Demurrer to the Amended Writ Petition

Ruling on Request for Judicial Notice

Respondent's request for judicial notice filed on February 2, 2022 and request for judicial notice filed on March 29, 2022 are granted under Evidence Code section 452.

1           Ruling on Demurrer

2           In this current challenge, respondent demurs to all three causes of action. It argues the 3 first cause of action fails since Measure F enacted in 1976 violates Article XI, Section 1(b) of the 4 California Constitution by depriving the Placer County Board of Supervisors of its constitutional
5 authority to set employee compensation. Respondent goes on to challenge the second and third 6 causes of action as derivative of the first cause of action, failing to allege additional facts to 7 support any separate legal theory.

8           A demurrer is reviewed under well-established principles. A party may demur where the 9 pleading does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action, testing the sufficiency of 10 the pleading and not the truth of the allegations or the accuracy of the described conduct. (Code 11 of Civil Procedure section 430.10(e); Bader v. Anderson (2009) 179 Cal.App.4th 775, 787.) The 12 allegations in the pleading are deemed to be true no matter how improbable the allegations may 13 seem. (Del E. Webb Corp. v. Structural Materials Co. (1981) 123 Cal.App.3d 593, 604.)
14 Further, the pleading must be liberally construed with all inferences drawn in favor of the 15 petitioner. (Code of Civil Procedure section 452; Quelimane Co. v. Stewart Title Guaranty Co.
16 (1998) 19 Cal.4th 26, 43, fn. 7; Perez v. Golden Empire Transit Dist. (2012) 209 Cal.App.4th 17 1228, 1238.)

18           Respondent's challenge to the first cause of action does not generally rely on purported
19 insufficiencies in the factual allegations. Rather, respondent asserts the claim for violations 20 under Elections Code section 9125 cannot stand since the allegations rely on Measure F, which 21 was invalid and unconstitutional. The right of the people to bring initiatives and referendums are 22 not granted to the people, they are powers reserved by the people. (Rossi v. Brown (1995) 9 23 Cal.4th 688, 695.) The courts are zealous custodians of this right, charged with the duty to 24 jealously guard the right of the people, which is often described as one of the most precious
25 rights of our democratic process. (Ibid.) In this vein, judicial policy is to apply liberal 26 construction to this power of the people when challenged so that the right is not improperly
27 annulled with doubts resolved in favor of reserving the power. (Ibid.) The local initiative power 28 is seen to be even broader than the power reserved under the California Constitution. (Id. at p.

1 696.)

2 When considering the liberal construction applied to the initiative power of the people
3 along with the liberal construction that is afforded to a pleading at this stage, the court 4 determines the allegations within the first cause of action are sufficient to withstand the 5 demurrer. To reiterate, the challenge is brought at the pleading stage in an attempt to prevent 6 substantive review of the petitioners' claims. To prevail, respondents need to show an inability 7 of petitioners to proceed on the legal theory espoused in first cause of action, which has not been 8 demonstrated here. The cases cited by respondent are factually distinguishable and, more 9 importantly, address challenges brought beyond the pleading stage.

10 Gates v. Blakemore (2019) 39 Cal.App.5th 32, addressed a pre-initiative writ challenge
11 so that the merits of the controversy over the proposed initiatives could be resolved with the trial
12 court holding a hearing on the matter. Citizens for Jobs and the Economy v. County of Orange
13 (2002) 94 Cal.App.4th 1311, addressed a successful summary judgment motion where the trial 14 court determined the initiative measure interfering with county board of supervisors' ability to 15 plan and implement various projects was void and unenforceable. After a substantive review in 16 Meldrim v. Board of Supervisors (1976) 57 Cal.App.3d 341, the trial judge issued a judgment 17 that determined an initiative measure ordinance setting salaries for members of the board of 18 supervisors was unconstitutional. Jahr v. Casebeer (1999) 70 Cal.App.4th 1250, had a 19 substantive hearing on the merits where the trial court determined a proposed initiative 20 establishing compensation for the county board of supervisors was unconstitutional. Even 21 respondent's newly cited case, Pacifica Firefighters Association v. City of Pacifica (2022) 2022
22 WL 871260 (Pacifica), involved a substantive review of the writ petition with the trial court 23 determining the initiative requiring top step salaries for fire captains to be set at the average for 24 neighboring cities was an unenforceable usurpation of authority granted to the city council. The 25 court cannot determine at this juncture that the claim for violations of Elections Code section
26 9125 is unconstitutional on the face of the pleading even when the judicially noticeable
27 documents are considered. As it stands, the allegations presented in the first cause of action raise 28 a viable claim at the pleading stage.

1 Respondent was vehement during oral argument that this action cannot proceed past the 2 pleading stage based solely upon Pacifica. This interpretation of Pacifica, however, is not well
3 taken. To reiterate, the court in Pacifica reached a substantive determination on the 4 enforceability of the initiative after considering the briefing and oral arguments of the parties.
5 The case does not stand for cessation of dueling constitutional claims at the pleading stage. At 6 this juncture, the court considers whether the claims in the first cause of action of the writ
7 petition are sufficiently pleaded to proceed with the litigation. The court determines the answer
8 to this question is "yes". It makes no determination as to whether the claims will ultimately 9 prevail once a substantive review has been conducted. The demurrer is overruled as to the first 10 cause of action.

11 The third cause of action alleges a claim for declaratory relief, seeking to declare the 12 rights of the parties on an actual controversy between the parties regarding the repeal of Measure
13 F. The allegations within this claim sufficiently plead a cause of action for declaratory relief.
14 The relief seeks specific judicial determinations regarding the validity of the repeal of the prior 15 version of Section 3.12.040, which is distinguishable from that sought in the first cause of action.
16 The demurrer is also overruled as to the third cause of action.

17 The same is not true for the second cause of action, which alleges a violation of Placer
18 County Code Section 3.12.040. The allegations within this claim are conclusory in nature, 19 failing to allege facts in support of the cause of action. Furthermore, the cause of action is not 20 viable against the current iteration of Section 3.12.040. The allegations refer to a version of 21 Section 3.12.040 that is no longer in effect. The demurrer is sustained as to the second cause of 22 action.

23 The final matter to address is whether petitioners should be afforded leave to amend. The 24 court has carefully reviewed the allegations within the amended writ petition along with 25 considering petitioners' opposition to the demurrer. It appears petitioners may be able to remedy 26 the deficiencies in the second cause of action so as to formulate a valid legal claim. The 27 demurrer is sustained with leave to amend since there appears to be an ability to remedy the 28 deficiencies in the second cause of action.

1 The second amended writ petition shall be filed and served by May 27, 2022.

3 Respondent County of Placer's Motion to Strike the Amended Writ Petition

4 Ruling on Request for Judicial Notice

5 Respondent's request for judicial notice is granted under Evidence Code section 452.

6 Ruling on Motion

7 Respondent seeks to strike paragraphs 10-63 of the amended writ petition, asserting none
8 of the allegations are relevant to the causes of action alleged in the pleading. A motion to strike 9 may be granted to strike irrelevant, false, or improper matters in a pleading; or to strike a 10 pleading not drawn in conformity with the laws of the state or an order of the court. (Code of 11 Civil Procedure section 436(a), (b).) The grounds for a motion to strike must appear on the face
12 of the pleading or from judicially noticeable matters. (Code of Civil Procedure section 437(a).)
13 Further, the parties are to meet and confer regarding any objections to language prior to the filing
14 of a motion to strike. (Code of Civil Procedure section 435.5.)

15 Initially, the court does not accept respondent's characterization of meet and confer 16 attempts. Respondent takes the position that it had nothing further to discuss after the filing of 17 the amended writ petition since the parties had essentially said all they had to say prior to the 18 filing of the motion to strike. Section 435.5 contemplates a more vociferous attempt to resolve
19 matters. The statute calls for the parties to attempt resolution of objections raised in the motion
20 to strike. Respondent tacitly admits it did not engage in this robust level of informal resolution.
21 The court will expect the parties to adopt a more broadminded interpretation of the informal 22 meet and confer process in the future rather than incorporating prior discussions as a fulfillment 23 of their meet and confer obligations.

24 The court has carefully reviewed the challenged allegations and determines the 25 allegations in paragraphs 22, 23, 46, 49, and 50 are irrelevant and improperly pleaded. The 26 motion is granted as to these paragraphs. The court strikes paragraphs 22, 23, 46, 49, and 50 27 without leave to amend.

28 The remainder of the paragraphs are sufficiently relevant to the claims alleged in this

1 action so as to stand as pleaded. The motion is denied as to the remainder of the challenged
2 paragraphs.
